SIGNS OF THE EVACUATION OF RICHMOND.

BALTIMORE, Tuesday, March 14.

A returned Union prisoner, who reached Annapolis to-day, direct from Richmond, communicates some interesting intelligence in relation to the state of affairs at Richmond and SHERIDAN's movements. He says he was confined in Castle Thunder, and, through the friends of Union citizens incarcerated there, obtained much information relative to events transpiring, about which Richmond papers are silent.

On Saturday night last Richmond was thrown into a state of intense excitement, by the announcement that SHERIDAN was near the city. The alarm bells were rung, and all the Home Guards, and every available man that could be spared, was hurried off to repel the Yankees, who were said to be at Beaver Mills Aqueduct, on the James River, some twenty miles from the city, destroying the canal, the main feeder to Richmond. The excitement continued all night, and increased to a panic throughout Sunday, and down to Monday morning, when he left, the alarm still prevailed. It was understood that SHERIDAN had succeeded in the destruction of the aqueduct, blowing it up with gunpowder, and it would take at least six months to repair the damage done by him during Sunday afternoon. PICKETT's division passed Castle Thunder in great haste on the way to meet SHERIDAN. There was a ferry near the aqueduct, and it was believed that SHERIDAN's purpose was to cross the James, and strike the Danville road near the coal fields, where there is an expensive bridge, destroy that, and thus complete the destruction of communication of Richmond, and then make a junction with GRANT.

Movements indicating a preparation for an abandonment of Richmond have been in progress for some time. The heavy machinery for manufacturing iron has been removed; also the machinery of their percussion-cap manufactory; and all the carpenters in town were at work filling large Government orders for packing boxes.

The high water in the James had subsided so much that the boat which conveys prisoners from Richmond could not pass above Rockett's, as she had been doing previously. From this circumstance, it is hoped that SHERMAN will find less difficulty in crossing the streams in his line of march.

NEWS FROM REBEL SOURCES.

The Raiders Above Richmond—The Queer Victories of Bragg—The South Ready for a Dictatorship—Fast Day in Richmond.

We have received Richmond papers of Monday, the 13th inst. They contain very little of interest beyond what was published in the official bulletins yesterday morning. It is noticeable that they publish in full, from Northern papers, the accounts of SHERIDAN's victory over EARLY.

WAR NEWS.

SHERIDAN IN THE REAR OF RICHMOND.

From the Richmond Whig, March 13.

It is as well known to Grant as to our people that a considerable force of Yankee cavalry is raiding through some of the counties west of Richmond, and in the vicinity of the Central Railroad, but it is considered inexpedient by the military authorities to publish anything relating to their movements. At least this was the understanding several days ago, and we have not been apprised of any modification of the request communicated to the press. We mention this fact to explain to our readers the non-appearance in the Whig of intelligence from the country into which the enemy has penetrated.

THE QUEER VICTORIES OF BRAGG.

From the Richmond Whig, March 13.

The tide of fortune at last has turned. Good news has begun to reach us. Within the last two days we have received intelligence of two victories, which, although as to the number of the forces engaged and the losses, they may not approach the great battles of the war, are yet of immense importance, considered with relation to the existing and prospective military situation. Gen. Bragg's victory over the column of the enemy making its way out from Newbern, absolutely breaks out one of the links of the much vaunted Yankee combination. The object of the enemy was, doubtless, to destroy the railroad in the neighborhood of Goldsboro, with an intention well understood by our Commanders. Gen. HAMPTON's victory over KILPATRICK is equally important, and will prove a heavy blow to SHERMAN. We anticipate news of even more decisive results within a few days.

THE CRISIS IN THE SOUTH.

THE REBELS READY FOR THE DICTATORSHIP.

From the Richmond Whig, March 13.

In the elections which are shortly to take place in this State, one controlling and exclusive purpose should occupy the mind of the voter, namely, to secure for the public service only men of the most indomitable resolution and the most confident and sanguine spirits. Any and everything else—ability, experience, learning, purity—may be dispensed with; but this is indispensable. Ours may not be, and is not, a revolution; but it requires men of the revolutionary mould. In ordinary times, none would demand for legislators, more strenuously than we, the qualities which we now hold to be not only unneeded but pernicious. Moderation, caution, conservatism, an over-scrupulous regard for private rights and a too rigid adherence to the limitations of laws and constitutions do not make the statesmanship we have use for. In their stead we want boldness, tenacity, faith, blind faith even. Audace, encore audace, toujours audace is the beginning, middle and end of the political science suited to our emergency. The man who has no such word as "fail" in his vocabulary, whatever may be his deficiencies otherwise, would be worth more to the cause, in public station, than a second BACON, if he thought our success uncertain. We know, and may have to name, gentlemen in our Legislature and of our delegation in Congress, to whose elevation we have contributed, and who in ordinary times would grace their positions, but who, for lack of the one essential quality of absolute faith, are not only of no advantage to the cause, but are doing great harm. Were they angels from Heaven they should be, for the time being, laid aside. Constancy and endurance will win this fight without the least possibility of failure. But men who permit themselves to contemplate the chance of failure are not the men to endure or cause others to endure, all that may be needed for success. We are not indulging in censure; our personal feelings are kind towards the gentlemen we have in our eye; under other circumstances we would give them a hearty support; but for the purposes of this war, as leaders of the people and pillars of the cause, they are, by their moral constitution, incapable of good, and are unconsciously doing immense mischief. Let us hide them away, with all tenderness and respect, in the obscurest retirement, till these rough times are overpast. Let us fill their places with men of less or no sensibility and apprehensiveness—and, if there be real danger of failure, better to take men who have not mind enough to see it. Nearly all that legislation can do has been done. All the men and means of the country have been placed at the disposal of the Confederate Executive. Confidence alone is needed—confidence that will never falter, come what may—for that will produce constancy, and constancy will yield success, as certainly as spring follows winter.

FAST DAY IN RICHMOND.

From the Richmond Whig, March 13.

The President's appointment of Friday, the 10th inst., as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer, was universally respected in this community, and, by a large number, was religiously and sincerely observed. All secular business was suspended, and the streets were almost deserted except by persons going to or returning from the religious services held at the various places of public worship and prayer.

The weather, in the forenoon was wet, chilly and unfavorable, and to this circumstance we may attribute the lessened display of gaudy finery at the churches—which always seems indecorous on such occasions—but the congregations were large and attentive listeners to the appropriate discourses delivered during the day. It is to be hoped that the admonitions and "words of wisdom" uttered yesterday will be treasured in the memory of those who heard them, to the end that in the future they may all lead blameless lives, and whilst securing for themselves the incalculable advantage of well-doing, contribute to the righteousness of the nation, without which we cannot expect the favor of God.

SHERMAN HEARD FROM.

His Headquarters at Laurel Hill, N. C., March 8.

"We Are all Well, and Have Done Finely."

BRAGG IS FAIRLY BEATEN.

He Retreats Across the Neuse, at Kingston.

[OFFICIAL.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—11 A. M., March 14.

Maj.-Gen. Dix:

Dispatches direct from Gens. SHERMAN and SCHOFIELD have been received this morning by this department.

Gen. SHERMAN's dispatch is dated March 8, at Laurel Hill, North Carolina. He says: "We are all well and have done finely."

Details are, for obvious reasons, omitted.

Gen. SCHOFIELD, in a dispatch dated at Newbern, March 12, states that on the night of the 10th, near Southwest Creek, BRAGG was fairly beaten; that during the night he retreated across the Neuse at Kinston, and now holds the north bank of the river at that place.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

[Laurel Hill is a small town in Richmond County, North Carolina, about thirty miles southwest of Fayetteville, toward which point SHERMAN is evidently directing his march.—ED. TIMES.]

REPORTS FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

Sherman's New Base of Supplies to be established at Wilmington.—Arrival of His Chief-Quartermaster at that Place.

FORTRESS MONROE, Saturday, March 11.

The steamer Virginia, Capt. SNYDER, arrived here last evening from Wilmington, N. C. The base of supplies for Gen. SHERMAN's army, in view of his rapid movements northward, is to be established at Wilmington, N. C.

Gen. SHERMAN's Chief Quartermaster had arrived at Wilmington, N. C., and all the transports and other vessels, laden with supplies, have been ordered from both Charleston and Savannah, S. C., with orders to rendezvous at New Inlet, S. C.

The captain of the Virginia reported having experienced unusually heavy weather during the trip up the coast, and saw ashore off Cape Henry a brig and schooners high and dry upon the beach.

The exchange of prisoners, under the recent arrangement, at Varona Landing, between Col. MULFORD and the rebel agents, is progressing very rapidly.

The steamer George Washington arrived from there this morning with 180 of mostly sick and wounded.

The steamer New-York, is expected also, to-day, with a large number. As fast as they arrive they are dispatched to Annapolis, Md.

The schooner Cypress, bound to Port Royal, S. C., with a load of coal, put in here for a harbor, this morning, in a leaking condition.

THE BATTLE OF KINSTON.

Full Details of the Engagement of Wednesday—Casualties Among Union Officers—Raid in the Rebel Rear.

Correspondence of the Newbern Times.

CAMP NEAR SOUTHWEST CREEK, March 9, 1865.

On Monday evening, the 6th, Col. SAVAGE's cavalry command left Camp Palmer, and advanced on the Trent road toward Kinston. Gen. FOSTER's old soldiers will recollect how heavily this road was blockaded at the time of the Goldsboro expedition, in December, 1862. This time it was still worse, as the obstructions had been made with more deliberation and system. Still they made their way on, cutting through some obstructions, flanking others, and building a number of bridges—the latter part of the work being superintended by Maj. TAYLOR, with whom bridge-building is a specialty.

The same evening Capt. GRAHAM, well known in North Carolina warfare, had a skirmish with a rebel cavalry outpost at Gum Swamp. I have not learned that any loss was sustained on either side, except that during the skirmish one rebel soldier deserted and came over to GRAHAM's command. He reported the rebel force in Kinston and vicinity as about 16,000. How much credit we should give to his statement our readers may judge for themselves.

During the night, or early on the following morning, a small body of Col. CLASSEN's command occupied the point where the Dover and Jackson roads, so called, meet the Trent road from Newbern. They charged the enemy's skirmishers and drove them across Southwest Creek, to the shelter of their works at Jackson's Mills, a distance of a mile and a half. These works are said to be four miles and a half from Kinston. Gen. FOSTER passed them on his return to Goldsboro, and his soldiers will generally remember something respecting their appearance.

At twenty-five minutes past twelve, Lieut. WOOD, of the Third New-York artillery, having placed his guns in position, near the railroad on the east side of Southwest Creek, opened fire upon the enemy's works opposite. These works are upon the same stream with those at Jackson's Mills, and to the northward of them. The enemy replied, and the firing continued from both sides with more or less intermission during the day.

Meanwhile another section had been posted on the Trent road, and opened fire upon the works at Jackson's Mills. There, too, firing continued from both sides with some intermission throughout the day.

Lieut. WOOD's artillery were supported by the Ninth New-Jersey, a regiment which gained an enviable reputation long ago. The artillery on the Trent Road was supported by that portion of Col. CLASSEN's command already mentioned. Late in the afternoon they were relieved by Col. UPHAM's brigade.

During the night the skirmishers of the Fifteenth Connecticut were pushed forward to within one hundred yards of the rebel works.

Wednesday morning commenced quiet, the firing being very light on both sides during most of the forenoon. During the forenoon, intelligence arrived that a movement was in progress with a view to turning the left of our line.

To meet it Col. UPHAM ordered the Twenty-seventh Massachusetts into the woods south of the road, and had them formed in line of battle, facing nearly south.

About 11:30, as I was at Col. UPHAM's headquarters, seated upon the ground and writing for the Times, with a bread-box for my writing-table, a sudden and tremendous volley of musketry saluted our ears. It came from a point nearly in our rear, threatening the capture or destruction of the entire brigade. Crowding my letter into my pocket, I started back, but not until I had seen that Col. UPHAM had met the emergency by the most prompt and well-timed orders that the nature of the case admitted. But the attack was of too precipitate a character to allow of new dispositions to meet it, and after a brief but determined contest the rebels swept that part of the field.

Those who escaped generally reached our right, being cut off from the main body on the left, to which they belonged. Had it not been for the determination with which the Massachusetts Twenty-seventh and Major CLASSEN's cavalry contested the ground for those few moments, your correspondent would inevitably have shared the fate of many a braver and better man. The friends of Capt. BASSETT will regret to learn that he was shot upon the skirmish line, a few minutes before the rebels made their attack. He was thought to be mortally wounded. A stretcher was sent down to bring the body to the rear, but, on account of the sudden attack, it never reached him.

The attacking force is understood to have been HOKE's division. About two hours after their attack was made Col. SAVAGE made a raid in their rear, capturing about sixty-five men, five ambulances and a surgeon. Soon after an attack was made upon our right, but it was speedily repulsed. During the afternoon the firing was heavy on the left. The loss is not heavy so far. Previous to the attack yesterday, probably a dozen would cover the whole loss in killed and wounded. The medical officer of Gen. CARTER's staff, when the fighting was the heaviest, estimates the loss in killed and wounded up to this time at fifty or sixty.

During the fight yesterday, Lieut.-Col. SCOTT, of the Seventeenth Wisconsin, suddenly and unexpectedly ran upon five rebels. Assuming a bold front, he ordered them to surrender.

One of them replied, "I am hungry and tired, I will do most anything for something to eat." Two others declared they would not. "Yes you will," said the Colonel, "come here." The fellow then tremblingly took aim at Col. SCOTT. "You drop that," exclaimed the Colonel, "and come right here." He did as he was told. "Now hand me that gun." He obeyed again. The Colonel now having a weapon to use, took aim at the others successively, and, by the same cool effrontery already indicated, brought them all to his side, and took them in triumph. Strange to say he was without his pistol, having no weapon to commence with but his sword and his boldness.

This morning skirmishing has been quite lively on our part, and our skirmish line has been pushed forward so as to regain most of the ground we lost during the first onset of yesterday.

Prisoners now report the rebel force in front at from 13,000 to 15,000. They are said to have received large reinforcements night before last. They all report that Gen. BRAGG is in command.

Our men are in the best of spirits, and longing for an opportunity to repay the enemy for the injury that they inflicted upon us at their first onset yesterday. They appear to have the most perfect confidence in their officers.

A few minutes before the attack upon UPHAM's brigade, a letter was picked up by one of the skirmishers, addressed to a rebel soldier. It was dated "Rocky Hill, March 1." I make the following extracts: "There seems to be some excitement among the people about the Yankees advancing from Wilmington. It is reported that a small portion of cavalry are a few miles behind our troops and cleaning out the country as they go. It is said that they have taken 2,000 prisoners. * * * The South seems to be completely paralyzed. It seems to me our people have completely given up. * * * I see no other chance but subjugation."

Parades, Reviews, &c.—Deserters' Stories—A Medal to Gen. Grant—St. Patrick's Day—Horse Races, &c.

From our Own Correspondent.

RIGHT WING, ARMY POTOMAC,
Sunday, March 12, 1865, 8 A. M.

The weather is still fickle and capricious; yet we have enough sunshine to enable us to have reviews, parades, etc., almost daily. As we are now receiving daily visits from ladies connected with families of leading gentlemen in Washington and officers of this army, these occasions are generally graced with the presence of some of the fair guests. Yesterday I noticed Mrs. LINCOLN and Mrs. Gen. GRANT, among the number of visitors.

Deserters who came in on Friday night state positively that Gen. SHERIDAN now occupies Waynesboro. I presume that this is the foundation of the rumor circulated a few days ago, that he had captured Lynchburgh.

Yesterday Gen. GRANT visited headquarters of the Army of the Potomac, in company with the lady visitors. On his return last night to City Point he was accompanied by nearly all the corps and division Generals, and I am informed that the ceremony of presenting him with the medal awarded by Congress was to take place last evening at his quarters. I suppose your correspondent at City Point will give you the particulars.

Among the Irish regiments in the army, extensive preparations are in progress for an appropriate celebration of St. Patrick's Day, and if the weather shall prevent a move until that time, we may expect "gay and festive" scenes.

Horse-races are, I believe, to form a conspicuous feature of the ceremonies; and a programme that is circulated leads one to believe that these will be very exciting and amusing. After the horse-races there is provision made for foot-races and a series of other manly sports.

A Quiet Sabbath—Inspections and Parades—Religious Exercises and Social Visits, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Monday, March 13—A. M.

Yesterday, being the Sabbath, and the sun having blessed us with his bright presence, advantage was taken of it to hold religious services, and to inspect the troops. The day was truly delightful, and throughout the various camps the scenes were pleasant and instructive. The army was in gala dress, and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

During the entire day battalion, brigade and other reviews and parades took place, and I do not think I ever saw the army look to better advantage. We are busily studying the chances, and the next move is all the talk.

Chaplains held religious services in their respective commands, and the sound of prayer and the hymn of praise could be heard at almost any time during my ride. The afternoon was devoted by many to making social calls upon friends and comrades.

Yesterday afternoon, a scouting party came in on Gen. CRAWFORD's front. They numbered eight in all, and rode into our lines with their horses, sabres, carbines and equipments. It appears that they were sent out yesterday morning on a scouting expedition, and concluded to see the interior of our camps. They came in on the Halifax road, and seemed much pleased at their escape from rebel dominion.

Presentation to Gen. Grant—Important Rumors Concerning Sheridan.

CITY POINT, Va., Sunday, March 12, 1865.

Everything remains quiet up to the present time of writing. The weather continues clear and beautiful, promising a continuance of the same.

A highly interesting event occurred last evening, in the presentation of a magnificent Congressional medal to the great leader of our armies—Lieut.-Gen. GRANT. It occurred on board the Martin, between the hours of 9 and 10 P. M. Maj.-Gens. MEADE and ORD, and a number of Corps Commanders, with their Staffs, were present, including a number of ladies, amounting in all to a party of some 200. After reading the President's letter to Lieut.-Gen. GRANT, and the complimentary resolutions of Congress, Senator WASHBURNE, in a few impressive words, presented the noble and significant gift to the distinguished recipient. The Lieutenant-General, with characteristic modesty, accepted the gift with a very few pertinent and feeling remarks. The proceedings were enlivened by the strains of the General's superb military band, refreshments were tastefully provided in abundance, and all passed off admirably. Let us have but a little continuance of this fine weather, and I am much mistaken if the country does not come to the conclusion that the General has not only well earned his medal, but any amount of further honors that they can accumulate upon him.

It was reported here yesterday that SHERIDAN had actually got his advance as far as Manchester, which is to Richmond almost what Brooklyn is to New-York. I presume it could only have been a reconnoissance. We also learned that the 1,500 prisoners he recently took from EARLY, and which the Richmond papers of yesterday boasted would be taken again, and their guard "gobbled up," are all safely in Winchester.

J. R. HAMILTON.

Appreciation of Col. Baker's Operations—Painful Case of Kidnapping—Change in the Ordnance Department—Communication with Sheridan.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CITY POINT, Va., Sunday, March 12, 1865—10 P. M.

My letters contain such constant allusions to the weather that I suppose you will be looking upon me as a sort of epistolary barometer. But, seriously, I know of nothing which more vitally affects the interests of our army, at the present time, than the propitious or unpropitious state of the weather. I am, therefore, happy to say that we are, just now, enjoying most deliciously sunny days, with cold mornings and nights, and that the roads are consequently drying up with marvelous rapidity.

All remains quiet along our lines up to this time of writing; but nobody expects that such a state of things can possibly last, if we only have but a few days more of such weather as the present.

Nowhere are the exertions of Col. BAKER, of your city, more thoroughly appreciated than here, and I venture to say that there is not a true soldier in our armies but bids him God-speed in the able efforts he is making to hunt down the whole tribe of bounty-brokers. Cases of the most lamentable kind are constantly occurring to prove the horrible effects of the nefarious trade these men are pursuing, and it is safe to say that, but for their especial aid and connivance, many of the poor wretches now almost daily expiating their crimes, within our lines, by musketry or the gibbet, would never have been drawn at all into the vortex of so terrible a fate.

It is only to-day that a most painful case came to my personal knowledge. Two ladies are here, in an apparently vain search after a youth of only sixteen years of age, who has been spirited away from home and put into the army, by one of those sharpers residing at Hoboken. I refrain from giving names, in consideration for the family, although sorely tempted to nail up the brokers for public execration; but Col. BAKER is, doubtless, on his track before this.

It appears that this youth was what might be called a "hard case" at home; just the material, in fact, to be molded into anything by such masters in criminality as adopt the bounty-jumping business for a livelihood. He is an orphan, and has, from infancy, been taken care of, with his brothers and sisters, by a married aunt,—one of the two ladies here in search of him. From her account, she has traced enough of the affair to know that two men kidnapped him—by drugging and other purposes too well known to the fraternity—and brought him to the broker in question, who persistently denied, at first, all knowledge of these men—his own tools. By the determination exhibited on the part of the lady and her friends, however, the fellow has gone far enough to show symptoms of trepidation, and a wish to "compromise" when Col. BAKER's name was mentioned. The broker was paid his $275 out of the bounty. Some $450 are proved, by written documents, to have been paid to some woman who palmed herself off as the mother of the boy, and therefore it is not known how much, if any, came to the deluded boy himself.

The result of this is simply that the boy joined a regiment, was sent out here, and no sooner arrived than he deserted—doubtless well instructed previously by his masters, in the modus operandi. He has already been consequently guilty of a crime for which men are daily forfeiting their lives, and if he is taken, and escapes such punishment, it will be only through the leniency that may be shown, by the court, to his tender age and imperfect responsibility. Well would it be for the country if, in all such cases, the broker's life could be as much jeopardized as the deserter's. I was up at the Bull Ring to-day, when its contents were let out, and over two hundred hardened prisoners were marched, under guard, two by two, by a window in which the ladies anxiously sat to see if the boy was possibly among them, as he enlisted under a false name. It was painful to see the anxiety of that relative and her friend when the last of the prisoners had gone by, without revealing the features of the one for whom they were searching.

A change has just occurred in the Ordnance Department here. Lieut. J. P. FARLEY, under whose admirable direction the department has been hitherto placed, left to-day for the North, having been promoted to the Assistant Professorship of Drawing at West Point. Lieut. C. E. DUTTON succeeds him in chief management of the ordnance here, and it is no fulsome but well-merited compliment to both these officers, to say that the mantle of the former could not have fallen on worthier or more experienced shoulders than those of the latter.

MONDAY, March 13—9 A. M.

Nothing of any consequence during the night, except that two of our scouts arrived bringing first-rate news from SHERIDAN. He is, what might be emphatically termed, playing the devil generally to the northwest of Richmond, and in pretty close proximity. The James River Canal is completely destroyed, miles upon miles of railroad torn up, one of the very few chances of escape for LEE's army rendered utterly impracticable, while the gallant hero of the Shenandoah Valley comes sweeping onward like an avalanche. His scouts have visited Lynchburgh, and find it well fortified. Everything looks as if we were really, at last, reaching the "beginning of the end."

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

CONCORD, N. H., Tuesday, March 14.

The election of State officers and members of Congress and Legislature took place to-day. The Republicans supported FREDERICK SMYTH for Governor and the Democrats EDWARD H. HARRINGTON. Both gentlemen were residents of Manchester.

The returns received up to an early hour this evening, indicate that SMYTH's majority will exceed 6,000. Many towns make considerable Union gains over the vote of last year, when GILMORE's majority was about 5,500. The aggregate vote to-day will be less by some thousands than that of last year.

The result in the First Congressional District is close.

SECOND DISPATCH.

DOVER, N. H., Tuesday, March 14—10:30 P. M.

Returns from nineteen towns and cities give Gen. MARSTON, Republican, for Congress 4,607; MARCY, Democrat 2,964; SAWYER 237. MARSTON's majority over MARCY 1,643. This insures the election of three Republican members of Congress from New Hampshire, a gain of one.

THIRD DISPATCH.

CONCORD, N. H., Tuesday, March 14.

The vote for Governor in 127 towns foots up as follows: SMYTH, 24,665; HARRINGTON, 18,312.

Gen. MARSTON is elected to Congress in the First District by nearly 1,500 majority, and in the other two districts ROLLINS and PATTERSON are reelected by about 2,000 majority.

The Republicans have elected all the Councillors, nine out of twelve Senators, and a majority of about 100 in the House.

NEW-YORK.

Seldom, if ever, has any election taken place in a silence so obscure as that of yesterday. The preparations and force of inspectors, policemen, &c., was almost absurdly large compared with the vote cast.

The legal expenses of the election in the city will be not far from $5,000, which brings the cost per vote to a rather high figure—for honest votes.

There was no crowd, no contest, no fight, no drunkenness, no mischance or disturbance whatever, so far as we know. No one would have discovered the polling places by any gathering or indication whatever. The policemen on duty enjoyed a quiet sinecure, and might have slept the day out, had principle permitted. One jocular fireman in the Sixth Ward gravely asserted that they had had a terrific riot in his polling place, in consequence of two of the candidates coming in there and treating the assembly to excessive whisky! One inspector, in the Tenth Ward, after describing his own vigorous electioneering against the amendment, (there were then seventeen votes in the box, mostly for the amendment) was promoting the excitement by partaking in the manly game of dominoes. An up-town district afforded one curious instance of the slip-shod way in which some people vote. An elector came in and observed that his rule was to vote "against slavery." He spied, at the moment, a negative ballot lying on the table with the word "Against" in large type. "There," said he, "that suits me;" and he took the ballot and voted it; it being no part of the duty of the officials to correct or direct his operations.

The election in Brooklyn was, if possible, even quieter than in this city—an almost total indifference prevailing there.

TUESDAY, March 14—P. M.

This afternoon there was a fresh decline of seven per cent. in the Gold Room, as compared with the last sales of yesterday P. M.; making over twelve per cent. since Saturday night, or from 190¾ to 178 ₩ cent. Through the early hours of the day, there was quite a steady quotation in the Room of 184½@185 ₩ cent., with marked dullness, however, in the speculation, and a correspondent feeling in the Stock Exchange Board on the Railway Shares. The new and sudden panic in Gold this afternoon was partly ascribed to the direct official dispatch from Gen. SHERMAN, to the 8th inst., after he had crossed the dividing line between the Carolinas, to the effect that his march through South Carolina has been marked by the same signal successes as his previous great campaign through Georgia. There was inherent weakness in the market, however, before the receipt of this news, growing out of the large sums of Gold and contracts in Gold, held on speculation, and failure of all attempts since the price left 200 ₩ cent., to decidedly rally the bidding. The entire absence of an export demand, coupled with the increased caution of money-lenders to advance on anything near the market rate, of course adds to the embarrassment of speculative holders, whatever confidence they may really entertain or affect to feel in an early recovery in prices. The increase of last week of nearly two millions in the supply of Gold at Bank and in the Treasury-office, is an additional weight upon the market in its present downward tendency.

At the Afternoon Board of the Stock Exchange, the market for the Railways gave way from the comparative steadiness of prices in the morning, and there was a general decline of 1@1½ ₩ cent. The Government Gold-bearing Stocks were a fraction easier, but without any pressure to sell them in large sums. The subscriptions to the 7-30 ₩ cent. Popular Loan are on the increase, and the amount left of the present Loan will probably fall below $45,000,000 before the end of the week.

The subscriptions of the First National Bank to the 7-30 Loan, to-day, amount to $500,000.

The lowest sales of Gold were 177½ ₩ cent., from which there was a partial rally to 179@179½ ₩ cent. The Railways at 4 o'clock closed steady. The general market compares as follows with Monday afternoon:

☞ Information by telegraph from San Francisco has been received in this city that an oil well is reported struck, flowing two hundred barrels per day—the existence of oil in abundance on the northern coast of California being thus abundantly demonstrated. This is understood to be the first paying well sunk in a region where the existence of petroleum in paying quantities was first demonstrated in December last, according to a report of Professor Silliman. The surface oil discovered is described as of the consistence of good sperm oil; in color greenish yellow and opalescent, almost without odor, what it has being rather agreeable than otherwise, and somewhat resembling turpentine. Its specific gravity is about 960, water being the unit, which is not very different from the density of average crude petroleum. Its boiling point is high. The excitement which, since the December discoveries, has prevailed throughout the California region, will doubtless be increased by the announcement which is now made.—World.

A BOUNTY-JUMPER BROUGHT TO GRIEF.—Since the advent of Col. BAKER, the military subordinates attached to the Department of the East have been slightly aroused to the importance of their duty, and have of late exhibited more energy in dealing with cases where soldiers of the United States army have been robbed of their bounty. A case occurred last October, which should have been attended to at least three months ago, where a mere child was kidnapped by a notorious bounty-jumper named THOMAS HEANEY, residing at No. 15 Prince-street, Brooklyn. HEANEY, it is stated, is a member of a gang of bounty-jumpers, who practiced their nefarious profession all last Summer at Elmira—some of them taking the rounds as often as two or three or four times. A gambling-house was established by this gang at the corner of Hudson-avenue and Johnson-street, where they assembled nights to dissipate their ill-gotten gains. This HEANEY, as represented, induced a boy, named WM. MCCLOSKEY, to accompany him to Staten Island for the purpose of enlisting, promising to give him $1,000 as soon as he was examined by the doctor. He was handed $300, as stated, and immediately thrust into the guard-room without giving him time to remonstrate. HEANEY being acquainted with the premises, went to a window looking into the guard-room and induced a boy to give the money to a brother-in-law in Brooklyn. The money was intrusted to the boy but never returned. Complaint was made to Gen. DIX, and after considerable trouble the applicant succeeded in having an order of arrest granted which was placed in the hands of Detective CHARLES FROST, who brought the culprit before Gen. DIX yesterday. The case was submitted to Major JOLINE, and the matter appears to have been compromised.

THE WEST POINT CADETSHIP.—Mr. MOSES F. ODELL, member of Congress from Brooklyn, has obtained the disposal of the cadetship now vacant at West Point, and has announced his intention of bestowing the position upon the orphan of a member of the Fourteenth Regiment of Brooklyn, if one physically and mentally qualified can be found.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The public mind was rejoiced yesterday as by the receipt of official dispatches direct from Gen. SHERMAN. He was, on the 8th inst., at Laurel Hill, N. C., going ahead finely. This place is in Richmond County, about thirty miles southwest of Fayetteville. No particulars are given of his march, but it is certain that he has received not the slightest check.

SHERMAN's new base of supplies is at Wilmington. His Chief Quartermaster has arrived there, and all transports and other vessels laden with supplies, have been ordered from both Charleston and Savannah, with orders to rendezvous at New Inlet.

Gen. SCHOFIELD's dispatches, of March 12, show (what everybody suspected) that BRAGG's great victory was no victory at all. On the contrary, BRAGG was compelled to get across the Neuse River at Kinston as fast as possible, and is now on the north bank of the stream.

The City of Richmond was thrown into intense excitement, on Saturday night, by a report that SHERIDAN was only about twenty miles from the city, destroying the canal, blowing up aqueducts, and threatening to cross the James, break up the Danville Railroad, and ride triumphantly into GRANT's lines. The Richmond people rung the alarm bells, and started PICKETT's division in hot haste to meet SHERIDAN; and all through the night and on Sunday and Monday, up to the time the returned prisoner who brings this news left Castle Thunder, the wildest terror prevailed. The Richmond papers of Monday morning are of course, silent on this subject, but there seems to be no doubt of the general accuracy of the report. There are many indications that the rebels intend very soon to abandon Richmond—that is, if they can get away.

A gentleman who left the Army of the Potomac on Saturday last, and who has been spending several days at the front, states that the Army is in most perfect condition. Large accessions are being made to it daily, and the order, neatness, drill and discipline are complete; the parades and reviews are perfect, and are the special admiration of the British Major-General who has been for a time the guest of Gen. MEADE. There are nearly twenty miles of lines closely covered with Union troops. Our troops continue close on to Petersburgh, and as near as ever to Richmond. They are most abundantly fed and clothed.

We are indebted to Capt. BEAKMAN, of the steamship George Leary, for Richmond papers of Monday, the 13th inst. The George Leary arrived last evening from City Point, via Fortress Monroe, with the One Hundred and Third Regiment New-York State Volunteers, Col. HAINE, on board.

GENERAL NEWS.

The regular State election in New-Hampshire was held yesterday, and resulted in a complete Republican and Union victory. FREDERICK SMYTH, of Manchester, is elected Governor by about 6,000 majority; MILAN W. HARRIS is chosen Railroad Commissioner, and three Republican Congressmen are also chosen, viz.: First District, GILMAN MARSTON; Second District, EDWARD H. ROLLINS, reelected; Third District, JAMES W. PATERSON, reelected. The success of Gen. MARSTON in the First District displaces DANIEL MARCY, Democrat, who was chosen two years ago by 80 majority. The vote yesterday was rather light, and but little interest was manifested.

Yesterday a few thousands of the three-quarters of a million of voters in the State of New-York expressed their opinions on the amendment to the State Constitution, authorizing the appointment of Commissioners of Appeals. Not the slightest interest was manifested, and the few votes cast were without political significance. The amendment appears to have been adopted, however, by a sufficient majority. New-York and Brooklyn, which cast 155,000 votes in November, now muster only about 12,000.

The announcement of the revocation of the passport order was cause for a jubilee on the banks of the Niagara. At Suspension Bridge and Niagara Falls in particular, the people of both sides of the river were delighted. The hotels were thrown open and the people from either side went there for reciprocal congratulations. Everything was free, and some who appreciated the importance of the event celebrated more fully than others, and went in for a grand drunk.

At Newark, N. J., on Monday evening, EDWARD COATES, a soldier of the Veteran Reserve Corps, shot and killed CHRISTIAN STICKLER, a German, because the latter spoke to a female friend of COATES. The offender was arrested. Another affray occurred the same night in Kippler's Hotel, where THEODORE GLAZER attempted to kill FREDERICK WINK by cutting his throat. He did not quite succeed.

A bold attempt was made last Sunday to rob the bank at Millville, N. J. Burglars got in during the night and blew open the vault with powder, but before getting into the safe they got frightened, and fled. That they meant to make a good job of it may be guessed from the fact that spread out on the counters were found a complete set of burglars' tools, crowbars, chisels, and an immense sledge-hammer, weighing twenty-five pounds. On one desk was spread a collation, consisting of roast chicken, celery, salt, butter and whisky. Two cans of powder, slow matches and burglars' lanterns were among the articles left. The rascals had been in the bank on Saturday night and all day Sunday, as they had taken goods from the room above, and with them converted a table into a bed.

The New-Haven Journal says that a new broker's board has been opened in Hartford, in the same room occupied by the People's Telegraph, and they have direct communication with Gallagher's board, in New-York, and other boards. On the first night which the office was opened, gold was reported every five minutes during the evening. Two gentlemen made $5,000 during the evening buying gold.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Board of Aldermen met at 2 o'clock P. M. yesterday. A communication was received from the Mayor urging the board to pass the Tax Levy for the year at once as the Legislature is about to adjourn. It was referred to the Committee on Finance. Alderman JEREMIAH offered an ordinance regulating the storage of petroleum as a substitute for the one before the board. The new ordinance limits the quantity of refined oil stored in one place to 25 barrels, of crude to 5 barrels. The ordinance was referred to the Committee on Ordinances, and the board adjourned to Thursday next.

LEHMAN & FERST's stock of clothing, on the second floor, were consumed; Messrs. RICH & BREWSTER's stock of hardware, on the first floor was considerably damaged by water. The loss, which is roughly estimated at $1,000, is covered by insurance.

The Purim Masquerade Ball, which took place last evening at the Academy of Music, was largely attended, and was one of the most interesting and brilliant balls of the seasons. The Brooklyn Board of Education have increased the salaries of female teachers in the public schools to the amount of $75.

The Gold Room fell to 178 ℘ cent. yesterday afternoon. The panic feeling among the speculators was ascribed in part to the official news from Gen. The Popular 7-30 Loan in demand.

Produce and merchandise attracted much less attention yesterday, though prices generally favored buyers. Flour and Wheat were declining. Corn fell off 2c.@3c. ℘ bushel; Petroleum, 2c.@3c. ℘ gallon; Cotton, 2c. ℘ ℔.; Pork, 37½c.@62½c. ℘ bbl.; Lard and Tallow, ½c. ℘ ℔. The formal opening of the new Tobacco Exchange, in Pine-street (Nos. 50 and 52,) took place during the day, with appropriate ceremonies. The freight market was very dull.

At the Live Stock markets this week, the supplies of all kinds of animals are much larger than last week. The general appearance of the beef cattle is much better than it was at the last two or three markets. Beef cattle sold, about ½c. ℘ ℔. below last week's rates, on all grades of animals except extra cattle, which, owing to the short supply, sold about the same as before. Live hogs are about ½c. ℘ ℔. below the rates of the last market.

Our Great Generals—The Views of the "Edinburgh Review."

An article in the last Edinburgh Review, apparently from a military authority, pays at length the proper tribute of respect from the candid critics of Europe to our military operations during the last two years. The usual picture presented by the correspondence and the editorials of the London Times of our great struggle, has been of wide and aimless enterprises by the "Federals," where thousands were butchered without purpose, and where no military genius or comprehensive plan ever threw any light on the ghastly scene of slaughter. The Confederates alone showed strategical ability and heroic daring, and the only military leaders which the contest had brought forth, worthy of appearing on the page of history, were Stonewall JACKSON and Gen. LEE. The whole confused mass of movements was pronounced "not war but bushwhacking on a large scale."

It is certainly satisfactory that an impartial critic in a publication not over-friendly to our cause, should confirm the judgment which this journal has so often pronounced on the campaigns of Lieut.-Gen. GRANT. It has always seemed to us that no two movements in the brilliant career of NAPOLEON, had more of true military genius than GRANT's rear march on Vicksburgh, and his plan and execution of the "Battle Above the Clouds," at Missionary Ridge. Says the reviewer, with a candor which must insure admiration from every reader: "The surprise of the river-passage near BRAGG's centre by SMITH, and the manœuvering by which the Confederate lines were forced by GRANT, a month later, at the battle of Chattanooga, are, as tactical achievements, far fitter to be classed with the best feats of NAPOLEON and WELLINGTON, than any advantage won by a European General since the days of those giants of war."

The campaign of GRANT against Richmond is defended, as we have always defended it, as a campaign conceived on a grand and comprehensive plan, embracing three or four converging movements on Richmond, and which was partially unsuccessful in its original purpose, from the want of proper coöperation by Gens. BUTLER and SIGEL. The reviewer, indeed, alludes to the great loss of life in the campaign by the "Federals," but he does not enough consider that the loss of the rebels was so great that they never recovered from it, and that the filling the gaps left by this terrible struggle was one cause of the subsequent loss to them of Georgia and South Carolina.

The subsequent career of GRANT is not enough appreciated by the reviewer, perhaps never can be by any, except a future critic, regarding events from the standpoint of history. That grim patience and almost sublime self-forgetfulness which has kept him for so many months on a slow, wearisome, comparatively un-brilliant task of holding LEE and his army as in a vice in Virginia, while his subordinates made the brilliant marches and won the easy victories, is something not much admired by the crowd, but which history will never forget or cease to celebrate. It is the union of these patient and self-contained qualities with the highest dash and daring—it is the exhibition of the most remarkable energy and sagacity in seizing the opportune moment for the execution of his purpose—it is the combination in his intellect of an all-comprehensive vision with the most extraordinary power of coördination, which have already placed GRANT in a foremost position among the great military leaders of all ages.

Nor is SHERMAN's genius forgotten by the Scottish critic. It is his ingenious and not improbable supposition that SHERMAN's first invasion of Northern Alabama, which resulted in a failure, suggested the striking idea of carrying a moveable column over the cotton States, and even through the Atlantic States to Virginia. It is these marches which will stamp SHERMAN as one of the great captains, —for, as the reviewer well says, "a distant march from a base was supposed, during the McClellan period, to be an impossibility." Gen. SHERMAN probably conceived the idea himself, and he certainly showed as much patience and practical skill in preparing the details, as he had shown boldness and genius in forming the plan. His campaign from Chattanooga to Atlanta is one of the best tactical campaigns to be found in military annals; but in distinction from GRANT's, it must be remembered that he almost doubled JOHNSTON's army in number, while LEE probably had nearly as many as we had on the Rapidan.

The skill of SHERMAN's march northward will, we believe, be found hereafter quite equal to that of his famous advance to Savannah, and will prove that nothing after its kind has ever been achieved more remarkable in military ability.

There are two other names also which history will yet place high in military annals—THOMAS and SHERIDAN—both of men that have manifested the highest quality of the General and soldier, the power of wresting victory from defeat amid the most adverse circumstances. As the reviewer sums up: "If a General's perfect adaptation of given means to a required end, if careful forethought in design, with a just mixture of audacity and caution in execution, may fairly challenge our admiration, SHERMAN's campaign in 1864, and those of GRANT and LEE in the preceding year, seem to be worthy to be classed with the highest achievements which the annals of modern warfare record."

WHAT OUR FARMS YIELD.—Statistics just issued by the Department of Agriculture, show that while the farms of the loyal States, in 1863 produced, crops worth $955,764,822, those of 1864 yielded no less than $1,504,543,690. This is certainly a satisfactory increase, and a remarkable one, considering the circumstances.

The March of Victory—Sherman, Sheridan, Schofield.

A thousand canards are brought low, a thousand falsehoods set at rest, a thousand fears dispelled, by a single sentence from the pen of Gen. SHERMAN. It pricks the bombast of the Richmond newspapers, explains the reticence of the rebel authorities, and, we hope, will, for a time, bring shame and silence to the rebel sympathizing organs in this city,—one of which has been for weeks insisting that SHERMAN was in full flight backward from JOE. JOHNSTON, and the other, only yesterday, devoted several columns to showing that his campaign was a failure, and his army retreating to Charleston. The ink that gave visible existence to this nonsense was not dry when the bulletin of Secretary STANTON converted it into the material for irrepressible laughter.

The dispatch of Gen. SHERMAN to the Government is dated on Wednesday last, just one week ago, at Laurel Hill, (in Richmond County, near Fayetteville, N. C.,) and the brief extract from it with which we are favored, is in these words: "We are all well and have done finely." If Fayetteville, then, were his destination, being only two days' march from it, SHERMAN must have reached it by Saturday morning last. At Fayetteville he would find Admiral PORTER's fleet waiting for him; and the glorious veteran army, after its forty days' march through the wilderness, would find a hearty welcome from thousands of jolly sailors, and would find also a superabundance of supplies. At Fayetteville they will doubtless be shod, clad and shaved, and put in proper trim for their appearance before the good people of North Carolina, and for making a fit impression upon JEFF. DAVIS and Gen. LEE at Richmond, in company with the heroic old Army of the Potomac.

The news from SCHOFIELD, further north, is even better to-day than yesterday. It sets forth that on the 10th "BRAGG's army was fairly beaten," and in the night he retreated across the Neuse River. If the capture of our picket line on Wednesday was such an important victory for the rebels that LEE and BRAGG had to rush out with special bulletins about it, we should like to inquire why they have not been as prompt in giving the news of the subsequent progress of the operation.

From SHERIDAN also, operating near to Richmond, we have important intelligence, though not official. According to his own dispatch, which we gave yesterday, he was advancing toward Richmond from the west, and on Friday last was within fifty miles of the city. It seems he kept on advancing upon the same line, for on Saturday we hear of him as within twenty miles of the rebel capital, operating with great success, and on the night of that day the city was thrown into one of those shivering panics from which it has of late suffered so horribly. We got last night the Richmond papers of Monday morning, else we might conjecture that SHERIDAN had by that time swept through the rebel capital, and made a personal visit to JEFF. DAVIS. We may remark, as a sign, that though the Richmond journals of Monday contain no new of SHERIDAN's approach, they print several very devout hymns confessing their sins.

Thus, now-a-days, the triumphs of the Union arms far exceed the expectations of even the most sanguine among the loyal, and the breaking down of the Confederacy progresses with a rapidity that is exhilarating.

The Elections Yesterday.

New-Hampshire held her annual election yesterday, for Governor, Legislature, and Members of Congress. Two years ago there was no choice of Governor by the people. EASTMAN, the Democratic candidate, had 32,833; GILMORE, Republican, 29,035; and HARRIMAN, Union and Independent, 4,372. GILMORE was, however, elected by the Legislature. At the same time the Democrats succeeded in electing one Member of Congress—DANIEL MARCY, in the First District—by 80 majority. Last Spring there were but two candidates for Governor, and the vote was: GILMORE, (Republican,) 37,006; HARRINGTON, (Democrat,) 31,340; Republican majority, 5,666. In November, LINCOLN had only 3,529 majority. Yesterday, the Republicans did better than in 1864. Although the vote was rather light, and the interest (outside of the First Congressional District,) nothing like that of last Spring, they carried the State by more than 6,000 majority. Their best work, however, was the defeating of Gen. MARCY, who was again the Democratic candidate for Congress; and that defeat was achieved in spite of a split in our own ranks, which threatened an easy victory for the other side. As we write we receive returns from 127 towns, giving 24,665 Republican to 18,318 Democratic votes. Gen. MARSTON's majority over MARCY is about 1,500; the other Republican Congressmen have each about 2,000 majority; all of the Councillors, nine of the twelve Senators, and about three-fourths of the members of Assembly are Republicans. Altogether, New-Hampshire has done well, and nobly responds to the great military victories now being won almost daily in the heart of JEFF. DAVIS' dominions.

In our own State an election was held yesterday to ratify or condemn an amendment to the Constitution allowing the Governor and Senate to appoint Commissioners of Appeals, to bring up the long-delayed business of that tribunal, and put some thousands of litigants out of their misery. Very little interest was manifested, and the vote is absurdly small. Here and there, in some desperate Democratic locality—say like the Twelfth Ward of Brooklyn—the hard-fisted came out to vote in the negative, not because they knew or cared for the issue, but because they had been told that Republicans would vote for it, and a Republican Governor make the appointments. Both New-York and Brooklyn, however, give good majorities in favor. Albany goes strongly the other way. Our returns (at this hour) are meagre, but there is no doubt of the success of the amendment.

Our Position at Kinston.

The temporary check which COX's forces received last Wednesday at Kinston, was succeeded, two days later, by a decisive repulse of BRAGG, who was rash enough to attack our troops in their intrenchments. In the former affair, with about equal loss in killed and wounded, the enemy, according to BRAGG, captured three guns and 1,500 prisoners; in the latter he was driven off with severe loss, leaving his dead and badly wounded on the field, and several hundred prisoners in our hands; and eventually he retreated across the Neuse River. The balance of victory, therefore, is in our favor, for we hold the field. The first day's issue excited some apprehension, because it was an anomaly in the unchecked series of victories with which the year has greeted our arms thus far. Some ill-informed people supposed that Newbern straightway itself was in danger. That was impossible. With Fort Totten sweeping the entire area between the Neuse and the Trent, which make their confluence at the city, with the other earthworks protecting both banks of each river, and the numerous gunboats patrolling them for long distances, the capture of Newbern by an army of forty thousand rebels was impracticable, even with its ordinary garrison. With the number of troops of late concentrated there, Newbern was as safe as New-York.

But SCHOFIELD has evidently gone to Kinston to take the place, and will stay before it until his work is accomplished. From Newbern our forces undoubtedly moved up the Trent road and the upper Trent road, a cavalry force, possibly, also taking the Neuse road, which runs along the southerly bank of the Neuse River. A few miles this side of Kinston the two former roads join at a point called Y fork—or, sometimes, Y's fork, which gave rise to the spelling "Wise's fork." From this point, SCHOFIELD dates his dispatch. On the Trent road the fortifications are slight, but on the upper Trent, before the railroad crosses, there are strong field works, with artillery always mounted in them. Here, doubtless, the main battle occurred. Continuing toward Kinston, we find the old British road crossing the railroad straight to the Neuse River, and, still nearer, the lower Trent road. A force sent across to the latter would flank the intrenchments at Y fork, and force the enemy to the Kinston bridge. Probably, therefore, this manœuvre has already been accomplished. From Kinston runs the Wilmington road, on which works have now been erected, with strong batteries. Formerly our troops gained it without difficulty. On the Kinston, or further bank of the Neuse, are batteries which protect the long and substantial bridge spanning the river. This bridge the enemy will seek to command, and, on his final retreat, to burn.

Such, then, is the position of SCHOFIELD's Newbern column. It has already marched beyond its worst natural obstacles, having penetrated Gum Swamp and Dover Swamp, which stretch between Kinston and Newbern. To gain a true appreciation of its probable success, its relation to the other two North Carolina armies must be considered. While its mission is to move on Goldsboro directly in front, the other two will eventually clear its way by flanking that important railroad junction. A single glance at the military position will explain matters. The forces of BRAGG occupy the double line of railroads running from Goldsboro to the coast. Our own troops threaten the latter point from three directions, one by way of the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad, a second along the line of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad, and a third across the country from the West. The position of the enemy's forces is therefore dictated by necessity. Raleigh and Goldsboro are the points on which he must concentrate his troops, and he will naturally send them as far down the two railroad lines as possible—southeasterly toward Newbern as far as Kinston, where our troops have found him in force, and southerly to the vicinity of Wilmington, where he now extends his outer line across the railroad and the northeast Cape Fear River. It rests on the two swamps on either side of the river, and which are drained by the river, the Holly Shelter swamps on the eastern side being of great extent. Evidently, this is a very good position for the forces of BRAGG, because, the two railroad lines being intact, they can suddenly be concentrated on either one or the other, by way of Goldsboro, and check that column of ours on which they elect to fall. This is precisely what was done in the late affair just below Kinston. The railroad distance from Goldsboro to Kinston is only 22 miles, that from Goldsboro to Wilmington about 80.

But the continual movements of our three columns will prevent any possible repetition of BRAGG's late experiment. The advance of SHERMAN and of SCHOFIELD on Fayetteville will at once relieve the pressure at Kinston, by menacing Goldsboro and Raleigh itself. BRAGG, HOKE & Co. will find enough to do to prevent being flanked from the west. Should SHERMAN have reached Fayetteville, the withdrawal of HOKE's troops from Wilmington is a necessity, for fear of being caught between two fires. This insures the march of SCHOFIELD up both the two railroad lines toward Goldsboro.

The country around Newbern is difficult for manœuvering, and a light column, against a heavy force of the enemy, is in peculiar danger of being flanked and compelled to withdraw. The roads are narrow and lie through swamps, which, at this season, are in very bad condition. Even the corduroyed roads are traversed with difficulty. To Kinston the distance is about 40 miles by road, whether the Trent road or the Neuse road be taken. The railroad, which runs through Dover Swamp, is 32 miles long, and this our troops are rebuilding. Probably the whole road, to the further end of the swamp, or about 20 miles, is completed. Soon after passing Kinston, the broad belt of marsh and pine morasses, which girdles the North Carolina coast, gives place to high ground, and from thence to Goldsboro our troops will find easy marching.

AN EXAMPLE FROM THE TENTH WARD.—We dare say there are many exemplary things done by the citizens of the Tenth Ward, when they take counsel together. But we are specially bound to notice one movement in that ward, and to commend it as one altogether worthy of imitation. The ward has appointed an active, intelligent, and patriotic committee to act with committees from the other wards of the Fifth Congressional District, as auxiliaries of the County Volunteer Board, in the business of recruiting, and thus save the district from the disparagement of being visited with the draft. Who shall say that this movement is not wise, timely, and patriotic? The Tenth Ward, herein, points out the highway of duty. It is for others, on this occasion, to follow.

THE BETTER TIME COMING.—The great items (tea, sugar, coffee and the like) of the housekeeper's grocery account were not a fraction higher—we speak of the smaller retail dealers—when gold sold at 280, than they were yesterday, when gold could be had in any quantity at 180. Yet a little while, and this thing will cease to be. Trade combinations, trade conspiracies, and high prices have had their day. We shall see them broken up with the break-up of the combinations and conspiracies of the Richmond rebels.

THE DRAFT—MORE DAYS OF GRACE.—We doubt if the official intimation of Gov. FENTON respecting the draft, which we published yesterday, can be held to signify its indefinite postponement. We should regret to learn that it meant anything of the kind, unless we have first of all, the fullest assurance that volunteer recruiting makes satisfactory progress. It is well for us to remember that our quota in any event must be filled, and that steady exertion is needed to that end.

SHERMAN AND HOUSEKEEPING.—The provision dealers yesterday showed some signs that they understood SHERMAN's dispatch, and the price of butter gave way to an extent that must gladden housekeepers of every degree. Cattle-dealers, butchers and retailers of meat will also get light on the subject before many days are over. SHERMAN's army, it may be noticed, is not supplied at present from Bull's Head.

The Purim Ball—Grand Masquerade at the Academy of Music.

The fourth annual masquerade ball of the Purim Association was given last evening at the Academy of Music. The society is composed exclusively of Jews, and the proceeds are to be devoted to charitable purposes. The Purim Ball is held to commemorate one of the great epochs of Jewish history—the deliverance of the chosen people from the machinations of Haman, Prime Minister to King Ahasuerus, of Persia. The first Purim Ball was held at Irving Hall, and the succeeding ones have been at the Academy of Music. That they are very popular was proven by the fête of last evening.

A floor was placed over the stage and parquet for dancing. The stage was elegantly draped in the form of an immense tent, and decorated with the national colors. At the rear of the stage was a balcony scene; around the balcony vases of natural flowers were arranged in profuse abundance. The tiers of boxes were tastefully trimmed with bunting, on which were many humorous devices. At the rear of the stage were the words "Merry Purim" in large letters, formed of gas jets, while beneath was a monogram of the same word, and still lower, "Charity," in evergreens, referring to the object of the ball. From the centre of the ceiling was suspended a huge pyramid of flowers.

The scene was a most grotesque and interesting one, the maskers representing nearly every costume imaginable—historic, modern, novel and ludicrous. Many were of rich material, and evinced much care in their preparation. One was that of a Knight Templar, which was the most valuable on the floor. "Merry Purim," in the person of a lady with a comical mask, and many playthings attached to her dress, and a placard, "Here I come, good children," attracted much attention. An overgrown school boy, in check jacket and trowsers, with a slate and school-book under his arm, and a pocket full of cakes, caused much merriment by his humorous antics; his acting was certainly very creditable and was one of the best performances on the floor. The "Tefilin," or praying box, worn by the Jews, was a caricature on the Polish Jews. The irrepressible "Paul Pry" danced, holding his umbrella after the manner of an awkward countryman; several Yankees were also on the floor, some of whom were very funny. Among others were several Chinamen, an old Irish woman with a pipe, several clowns, a crusader, a boot-black, an Irishman with a pipe, two clowns dressed in the stars and stripes, and a real estate agent, with a square box over his head, with laughable signs.

The "Frog Dance" formed a prominent and laughable feature of the evening. At midnight the festivities had reached their height, and the masks were removed, when a scene of unrivaled fun was witnessed, as recognition followed recognition. The dancing continued until a late hour. The arrangements for the ball were excellent, and were efficiently carried out by the following committee: Adolph L. Sanger, floor manager; Herman H. Stillheimer, A. Henry Schutz, Bernard Lemann, Theodore Hillman, Solomon Weill, Moses H. Moses, Arnold Zanger, Solomon B Solomon, Louis G. Schiffer, Solomon Moses. The police, under Capt. Cameron, of the Eighteenth Precinct, were present, but the whole vast assemblage were so orderly that their services might well have been dispensed with.

The programme comprised twenty-eight dances, C. S. GRAFULLA furnishing excellent music.

A fine entertainment was given to the invited guests, consisting of wines and choice edibles.

About nine hundred tickets were sold, at ten dollars each, but the floor was not uncomfortably crowded at any time. The ball will realize a handsome sum for the Purim Association.

Among many other novelties, the Society published the Purim Gazette, a paper which is printed at each recurrence of the Purim ball.

—An important case of dramatic copyright is at present before the French courts. Mme. Scribe is contesting the right of the managers of the Italian to play without her leave "La Sonnambule," "L'Elisir," and the "Ballo in Maschera," alleging that these operas are but translations from her late husband's plays. The case has been decided in two different ways by the first two courts, and now awaits the issue of the final appeal.

GEN. MOSQUERA.

His Views of the Union Army and its Officers.

Translated from the Continental. (Spanish-American Journal in New-York.)

Three or four weeks ago, we announced the arrival of this distinguished Colombian in New-York on his way to Europe, where he goes as the representative of his country near the Government of England and of others of that continent. Now, we have to announce his departure for his destination, as he embarked on the China, which left this port for Liverpool on Wednesday, the 8th instant.

During his residence in this city, Gov. MOSQUERA has been the object of congratulations, and of many distinctions, at the hands of many liberal Spanish-Americans. Having proceeded to Washington some days after his arrival, he there also received great consideration and marks of distinction, not only from Spanish-Americans, but from persons of the greatest influence in the Government of the country, including President LINCOLN and the Secretaries of State and of War, who thus desired to give a public proof that they recognize the character of the great Colombian General, as well as of the feelings of sympathy which they entertain toward the South American Republics. Gen. MOSQUERA having expressed a desire to visit the armies besieging Richmond, Mr. STANTON, by direction of Mr. LINCOLN, immediately gave him a letter of introduction and recommendation to Lieut.-Gen. GRANT, at the same time informing the General of the illustrious visit he was about to receive, and sending on the Colombian General in a Government steamer. In the different camps Gen. MOSQUERA was received and treated with the greatest consideration by the respective Generals; for it was not necessary to speak with this General for any length of time without finding it necessary to do justice to his talents and extraordinary information, as well in the art of war, and everything that relates to it, as in all scientific and literary matters.

Being desirous of obtaining the opinion of one so practical and well-informed in military matters regarding the great army of the North, we requested him to give us his opinion with regard to those things which he had examined and we have pleasure now in publishing the rapid review which on the very morning of his departure he wrote, which with much propriety we might say he had to leave to go on board the steamer.

OPINION OF GEN. MOSQUERA ON THE ARMIES OF THE POTOMAC AND THE JAMES.

On the 1st of March I visited the headquarters at City Point, which, in fact, is an improvised city, where the greatest order and regularity are observed. The army tents have been removed and log-huts substituted, for the erection of which all the forest wood around has been used.

It is wonderful to see the works which the troops have constructed to accommodate with quarters the various corps of the Army of the Potomac. Plank-roads have been laid down for the passage of wagons and trains, the transportation of the materiel of war, and to facilitate the movements of troops. The various military lines are arranged with great regularity and in strict accordance with the principles of military art, and the rules of encamping an army carefully observed, all the divisions being placed within supporting distance of each other.

The railroad which has been built for carrying troops and munitions of war from the headquarters at City Point to those of Gen. MEADE, has all the solidity and durability necessary for this work, and it has been protected by an earthwork which defends it from the fire of the enemy within advanced positions. The Engineers have skillfully and in conformity with the art of war constructed camp fortifications which are well-designed to protect each other, as well as to open a cross fire, in case of an attack upon them by the enemy. The ditches are also protected by oblique stockades, which prevent assault, and have the depth and width to make a camp perfectly secure and easily defensible by a third part of the army, leaving the remainder of the forces free to operate upon the flanks of the enemy making the attack. It is not difficult for one to feel assured that the triumph of this army would be certain if the enemy should attempt to make a desperate attack to relieve themselves from the difficult position in which they are placed. The executive department of the army, and the effectiveness of the artillery are the most complete that can anywhere be seen. No European army has ever had so abundant a supply of provisions, clothing, equipments and transportation as that of the American Army.

The soldiers are contented, and well supplied with everything needful. Their arms are properly kept, and as clean as they would be in garrison.

The tents of Lieut.-Gen. GRANT as well as of Gens. MEADE, WRIGHT and WEBB which I visited possess all conveniences, comforts and arrangements with all the simplicity of an office in the city. The hospitals are remarkable for the cleanliness regularity and punctuality of attendance which prevail. The wagons for transporting surgical instruments and medicine chests are of a new invention—an ambulatory pharmacy. In the hospitals there is not only neatness but elegance.

I speak only of the Generals whom I have seen, but I suppose that in the other camps the same excellent order of arrangements exists.

The army cannot resume operations until the ground, which is now very miry, becomes hard; for five thousand wagons and artillery trains, with over two hundred cannon, would very soon destroy the plank roads. The confidential duties of the staff and of the topographical department have been well and faithfully discharged, the officers knowing the enemy's country as well as their own.

I have much pleasure in writing this brief review to the editor of the Continental, in accordance with his request, and regret that I cannot extend it to any length, as I am about to embark for Europe.

T. C. MOSQUERA.

NEW-YORK, March 8, 1865.

Repentant Southerners.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I received this morning a letter from a prisoner at Point Lookout, from which I make a few extracts, only premising that the writer is a native Georgian and a slaveowner, as is also his brother (of whom he speaks,) and at the outbreak of hostilities, was an extensive wholesale merchant in one of the Southern cities. After acknowledging the receipt of a letter from me, and thanking me for a little money which I had sent him, he says;

* * * "It is my brother CHARLES that is here with me. He left home in September last with only three day's notice, and went to Virginia and into Gen. EARLY's army and was with it five weeks, marched 200 miles and was in five engagements; he was captured at Cedar Creek Oct. 19. He left our mother and her family, two widowed sisters with two children each, and his own wife and three young children, without any one to look after them or to make a living for them. * * * My wife is in ——, provided for, but I am troubled about those in —— county. My brother does not wish to return to the South; he has been robbed of all that he was worth and then dragged off like a dog to be slaughtered. He has made application, though ——, of Wisconsin, for a parole for the war; if he gets it, he will go to Wisconsin and stay. I have not made any move yet, but wait to see the result of my brother's application. I do not wish to go South again if I can help it and leave my family unembarrassed. They are so situated that I cannot take the oath of allegiance; but when they are inside the Federal lines, where they will be protected and respected, I shall go to them if I can. I think I shall remain here until May, if I can, and perhaps by that time I can get a parole to go home, or if not home, I can go North without feeling that my family are to suffer by the step," &c.

I have other letters of late date from other points which are much in the same strain; one from an officer of high rank in the rebel army; the latter by the way, a most earnest, and I may add honest (if such a thing is possible) rebel during the two first years of the war, but who is utterly disgusted and disheartened, admits that slavery was the sole cause of the war, and is perfectly satisfied now that it was a curse to the whites, no less than a wrong to the blacks. He, too, is a native of Georgia.

I would not attach special importance to these declarations did I not believe them to be sentiments of a large majority of the Southern people at the present moment. I have long been a resident in the South; was there when the war broke out, and during the first three and a half years of its progress, and was so situated as to know as much as any one, almost, in the whole South, of the feelings of the people.

They have lands and negroes at the South, but rather than again be subjected to the tyranny and cruelty of the Davis Government at Richmond, they choose to abandon all wives, children, property—everything—and are willing to take the oath of allegiance, (and I know them well enough to be sure they will keep it, too,) fearing only that if they do so the "chivalry" will visit their wrath upon the heads of poor helpless women and children. Think you not that these men, and thousands upon thousands of like minds all over the South, devoutly pray for the success of the national arms?—seeing in that success the only remedy for the almost hopeless misery in which the wickedness of their leaders has involved them. I doubt not you believe they do. I wish I could persuade all your readers, and all of my fellow-countrymen in the loyal States, to believe this as I do; then, indeed, would we hear no more of the talk which disgraces a portion of the Northern press, and which would be downright treason, if it were not such utter folly, but which is incalculably mischievous, nevertheless.

D.

THE PETERSBURGH MINE.

Report of the Committee of Inquiry—Letter from Gen. Ledlie.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your issue of the 2d inst. you published a synopsis of the report of the Court of Inquiry on the Petersburgh mine, in which I, among others, was censured. The first knowledge that I had that the Court of Inquiry ordered to investigate the circumstances attending the attack on Petersburgh had made a report, was derived from a résumé of the report which appeared in the public papers. I immediately wrote to the Secretary of War a letter, of which the following is a copy:

WILLARD'S HOTEL, WASHINGTON, March 2, 1865.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

SIR: On the 16th day of January, 1865, I forwarded to you my resignation as Brigadier-General of Volunteers. I did so in ignorance of the fact that the Court of Inquiry ordered to investigate the circumstances of the late attack on Petersburgh had made a report reflecting on my conduct in that attack. The first information that I received that any such report had been made, was derived from what purports to be a résumé of the report published in this morning's Washington Chronicle. In order that my reputation as an officer may be relieved from the imputations most unjustly cast upon it by this report, I most respectfully ask leave to withdraw my resignation, and that a Court of Inquiry may be ordered to investigate my individual conduct on the occasion referred to. I have the honor to be, very respectfully, &c., &c.,

JAS. H. LEDLIE.

This request was refused. I am thus precluded from any opportunity to be heard on my own behalf, before any proper tribunal upon the question of my individual conduct at Petersburgh.

The Court of Inquiry, whose report has been published, was, so far as I was concerned, a purely ex parte affair. Neither of my Brigade Commanders were summoned before the court to my knowledge, and only one of my staff officers. Gen. BURNSIDE protested against the constitution of the court, and endeavored to have it composed of officers who were not attached to the Army of the Potomac, and who had not been selected by Gen. MEADE. His protest was disregarded, and the court was ordered to proceed in its inquiry. Subsequent to the institution of this court, the joint committee of Congress on the Conduct of the War were directed "to inquire into and report the facts concerning the attack on Petersburgh." Of this committee it can at least be said that it was impartial. At the close of their report they say "they wish to be distinctly understood that they in no degree censure the conduct of the troops engaged in this assault," and they bestow proper commendation upon the Ninth Corps, in which I had the honor to command the First Division.

Lieut.-Col. CHARLES G. LORING, Assistant Inspector-General of the Ninth Corps, was summoned before this committee, but was not before the Court of Inquiry. He testified as follows:

"At about half-past two o'clock on the morning of the 30th July, I went with Gen. LEDLIE down to the front line, and we took our position very near the line, close in the rear of it, with his division, waiting for the mine to explode. There was a delay of perhaps three-quarters of an hour in the explosion of the mine. But I do not think the enemy discovered at all that we had made any unusual preparations. As soon as the explosion took place the division started to go in. The first brigade that went in started from our lines in three lines, with instructions to the Brigade Commander to push on at once for the top of Cemetery Hill.

The crater presented an obstacle of fearful magnitude. I suppose it, was a hole of about two hundred feet in length by perhaps fifty or sixty feet in width, and nearly thirty feet in depth. The sides of it were composed of jagged masses of clay projecting from loose sand. The upper surface had been of sand, with a lower stratum of clay. It was an obstacle which it was perfectly impossible for any military organization to pass over intact, even if not exposed to fire. The whole brigade was broken up in confusion and had utterly lost its organization. The officers were endeavoring to re-form their men, but it was an exceedingly difficult operation. I remained there for about ten minutes. By that time the rest of the division had come up, and the whole of the First Division was in the crater or lines immediately adjoining. It was all in the same confused condition. I went back to report to Gen. LEDLIE the condition his division was in, and to see if he could not rectify it. I then went up and told Gen. BURNSIDE of the state of affairs. From that time forward my position was mostly near Gen. LEDLIE in our old front line."

On receiving this report from Col. LORING, I immediately issued the proper orders and took the necessary steps for relieving the confused condition of the division. I am perfectly willing that the estimate of my conduct should stand upon this sworn statement made by Col. LORING, with the simple addition of the fact that my life was saved on that occasion only because the ball which struck my person had not force enough to penetrate my watch. I was stunned and temporarily injured by the force of the ball, and then and for the first time retired to a regimental headquarters, which were being used as a hospital. I stayed there but a few minutes, and then returned to my post, where I remained until we received orders to withdraw.

I respectfully ask you to give this letter the same publicity as you did to the report of the Court of Inquiry. Yours truly, JAMES H. LEDLIE.

NEW-YORK, Saturday, March 13, 1865.

Our Union Prisoners to be Cared for by the State.

By the following correspondence it will be seen that the care of these loyal and brave men is hereafter to be placed in capable hands.

The New-York State Soldier's Depot, where they are to be quartered, has all the facilities and comforts of a first-class hotel. Bathing and wash-rooms, barber-shop, library, reading-room, clean beds and good table, all free of charge:

OFFICE A. A. PROVOST-MARSHAL-GENERAL,
SOUTHERN DIVISION OF NEW-YORK,
NEW-YORK, March 14, 1865.

Col. Vincent Colyer, Superintendent N. Y. Soldiers Depot:

COLONEL: I am directed by Maj. R. A. DODGE, A. A. Provost-Marshal-General, to ask you if it would not be better that some arrangement be made, by which all escaped Union prisoners arriving in this city, could be received by your department instead of going to the Broome-street Barracks.

Many of these men are sick, and the accommodations at the Barracks are not adapted for them at all.

Could this arrangement be effected, the men could be very easily forwarded to Camp Parole, Annapolis, Md., after allowing them to remain for a day or two in this city. I am, Colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. B. BROWNSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

NEW-YORK STATE SOLDIERS DEPOT,
NOS. 50 AND 52 HOWARD-STREET,
NEW-YORK CITY, March 14, 1865.

Capt. H. B. Brownson, Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: In reply to your communication of this day, asking me if we would not receive all the escaped Union prisoners at our depot, instead of having them go to the Broome-street Barracks, I have to say that you could not possibly give the officers and employes of this institution a work that they would esteem a higher favor.

To receive these patient and suffering martyrs, after all the brutalities they have undergone at the hands of our malignant foes, and all the valor they have shown against our common enemy; to relieve their distress and hospitably entertain them as the guests of the great State of New-York, will be a privilege in which all patriotic citizens will wish to participate.

We can easily accommodate five hundred at a time, and the number will be limited only by the capacity of the building and a considerate regard for the comfort of the men.

Please inform Maj. DODGE of my reply, and believe me, Captain, very truly yours,

VINCENT COLYER, Col. and Sup't.

Why Not First Correct the Register?

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

An alien who left England two years since to find employment as clerk here, was recently notified that his name had been registered for the draft. He lost no time in calling on the Provost-Marshal of his district, who gave him a card to a man for making out his exemption papers. On calling with said card, he was told that he must pay three dollars for the papers. Being a poor man, he, with a view to save two dollars, went to a friend, who drew up an affidavit stating that the alien left England two years ago for this country, and that he had never offered to vote here nor applied for letters of naturalization. This was sworn to before a notary, the certificate and stamp attached. With this paper, the alien called again on the Provost-Marshal, who told him the paper was irregular and he could not receive it; that he must go and get it done in due form. On searching again, he learned that all the forms cost three dollars each, and he, therefore, desisted further search. Why not correct the register before drafting? Petty officers can never hold sinecures under a government as free as this, and at a time when its life is threatened. If the pure heads of military rule, in their several districts, shall be reliably informed that they may abate the nuisance by dismissing all approximate traitors. Let those who make the necessities of a state of war a means for extortion be turned loose, and they will soon find their level at encouraging bounty-jumping, and become food for powder, as they justly are, and so are all those who profess to be Americans and yet make the necessities of a state of war a means to fill their pockets by extortion or unreasonable demands on the honest poor who are willing to abide by the draft.

The Draft and Filling Quotas by Substitutes.

The following correspondence which is published in the western papers calls attention to an important feature of the new enrollment law:

CHICAGO, March 6, 1865.

To Provost-Marshal-General J. B. Fry, Washington City, D. C.:

Can you under the new enrollment act allow protective associations to furnish men in advance of draft, and receive credit therefor?

S. S. HAYES.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 9, 1865.

To S. S. Hayes, Chicago:

The twenty-third section, Act of March 3, 1865, authorizes any number of persons to furnish recruits previous to draft, and the persons furnishing them to be exempt. Copy of law sent to your Provost-Marshal to-day.

JAS. B. FRY,
Provost-Marshal-General.

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—AUBER's charming opera of "Fra Diavolo," will be given here to-night, for the last time this season. It has proved so generally successful that there can hardly be a doubt about the attendance which will greet its final rendering tonight. Mr. MARETZEK's subscription season terminates most positively on Saturday, with a grand matinée performance of "La Forza del Destino."

BROADWAY THEATRE.—The entire range of theatrical literature does not present a more charming instance of a purely domestic and humanizing drama than that furnished in Mr. BOUCICAULT's imaginative, ingenious and most excellent transcription of DICKENS' "Cricket on the Hearth." Under the title of "Dot," this work was produced originally at the Winter Garden, and was deservedly successful. Its revival last night suggests that it has yet a career to run, and it will, we think, pursue it at this theatre, where expectation is never greatly excited, but where, in this particular instance, it was more than gratified. The piece has been put on the stage with unusual care, (except the fairy scene of the first act, and there defective mainly so far as the dramatis personæ,) and is acted in many important respects admirably. Mr. OWENS' Caleb Plummer is fully equal to his Solon Shingle as a distinct and clearly-outlined character. The gentleness, quiet humor and inexhaustible affection of the old toy-maker, have never been realized better. We looked in vain for those traces of the Yankee part, which we have failed to discover in other personations by the same gentleman. The Caleb of Mr. OWENS was free from these. It is, in truth, a warm, genial and powerful illustration of one of DICKENS' greatest creations, and, as such, deserves to rank with the best modern individualizations known to the stage.

Mr. JAMISON's John Peerybingle was good, and Mr. DE GROAT's Tackleton deserves much credit, for quietness and well-sustained intentions. Miss PLACIDE's manner did not impress us as being especially suited for Dot, the simple, cheery little housewife. It requires softening down. The Bertha of Miss OSBORNE was in every way good, and the same may be said of the Dame Fielding of Mrs. HIND. The Tilly Slowboy was somewhat demonstrave, and the song in the second act was simply absurd.

The scenery was thoroughly good, and the mechanical effects were worked with precision, considering the limited capacity. In a word, the drama merits the patronage of the public.

LA FORZA AT BROOKLYN.—The last regular performance was given last night at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, "La Forza" being the attraction with the same cast that we have mentioned before. The house was filled with an appreciative and fashionable audience, and the interpretation of the work gave entire satisfaction. Mme. ZUCCHI has been heard but little in Brooklyn, owing to a predilection of the Academicians in favor of Miss KELLOG, but the warmth of her reception last night demonstrated her popularity. Mlle. MORENSI is an established favorite with the Brooklynites, and with Signor BELLINI is always sure of hearty recognition. The artists were in admirable voice and mood and a most enjoyable entertainment thus closed a successful and really brilliant season. If the academy would now spend a little money for scenery, it might begin to think of ranking at some time with first-class houses.

Chloasma, or Mothpatch, (also called Liverspot,) and Lentigo or Freckles, are often very annoying, particularly to ladies of light complexion, for the discolored spots show more plainly on the face of a blonde than of a brunette; but they greatly mar the beauty of either; and any preparation that will effectually remove them WITHOUT INJURING THE TEXTURE OR COLOR OF THE SKIN, is certainly a desideratum. Dr. B. C. PERRY, who has made diseases of the skin a specialty, has discovered a remedy for these discolorations, which is at once prompt, infallible and harmless.

WILBOR'S COMPOUND OF PURE COD-LIVER OIL AND LIME.—The great advantage of this compound over the plain oil is, that the nauseating taste of the oil is entirely removed, and the whole rendered entirely palatable. The offensive taste of the oil has long acted as a prominent objection to its use; but in this form the trouble is entirely obviated. A host of certificates might be given here to testify to the excellence and success of WILBOR'S Cod-Liver Oil and Lime. But the fact that it is regularly prescribed by the medical faculty is sufficient. For sale by ALEX'R B. WILBOR, Chemist, No. 166 Court-st., Boston; in New-York by J. Milhau, No. 183 Broadway, and Demas Barnes & Co., No. 21 Park-row, and by F. C. Wells & Co.

MEDICAL HYDROKONIA.
THE SAFE, EFFICIENT AND RATIONAL TREATMENT OF CATARRH, THROAT AND BRONCHIAL DISEASES, INTRODUCED AND PRACTICED
BY
DR. S. CLESSON PRATT
PROFESSIONAL ROOMS,
No. 793 BROADWAY, NEW-YORK.
Opposite Grace Church.

"TOPICAL MEDICATION"
FOR DISEASES OF THE RESPIRATORY ORGANS.

"Topical" means local, and in the sense here used signifies the treatment of Catarrh, Throat, Bronchial and Lung Diseases by the local application of medicines to the lining membrane or surface of the Respiratory Organs. This treatment (which is by no means new) comprises three distinct modes or processes, neither of which has proved successful to any great extent, and for reasons obvious to the physiologist, if not always so to the Physician.

SOLUTIONS.

In this "topical" (local) treatment we have first the application of medicine in solution, snuffed through the nostrils, injected up behind the palate or down into the throat, or squeezed into the larynx and wind-pipe from a sponge. The "specific" usually employed in this gentle and agreeable manner, is Nitrate of Silver, (Caustic) in solution of different strength, varying from two to sixty grains to the ounce of water. Of this practice we have only to say that for every case recovered in spite of it, we will guarantee to cite fifty made worse by it.

POWDERS.

Next to this "peculiar" kind of "topical medication" is the empirical practice of drenching the nose, throat, and air-passages with caustic and astringent powders or snuffs, inhaled into the larynx, and exhaled or blown out through the nostrils, to the discomfiture and imminent danger of the patient. Whilst such treatment is never justified, it always irritates the parts already inflamed, and often astringes the membrane, suddenly checking the morbid secretion, and driving the disease directly upon the lungs. Hundreds of cases of Nasal Catarrh have been made hopelessly incurable by this empirical method of snuff-taking.

VAPORS.

Lastly, we have the inhalation or breathing of medicated vapors. A practice seemingly justified by every known principle involved in the structure and pathology of the Respiratory Organs; and if this practice has hitherto failed to meet the sanguine expectations of its many able advocates, it is possible, after all, that the fault is not in principle, but in the modus operandi. The universal method of using medicated vapors for diseases of the Respiratory Organs consists in drawing or forcing a current of air through a heated solution of medicated water; and here is just where the practice unhinges from its data or principle.

Every educated physician well knows that but very few appropriate remedies can be used in this way at all, and of the medicines thus used, there is scarcely a prescription but that consists of from one-half to two-thirds Alcohol. Hence the pretended astringent, alterative and anodyne effects produced by this process exist only in name; the real effect is stimulant. Such, in brief, is a truthful summary of "Topical Medication" for diseases of the Respiratory Organs, as tested and understood by educated medical men, and still prated about and practiced by medical mountebanks.

MEDICAL HYDROKONIA.

HYDROKONIA is a word of our our own coinage, selected to signify that system of theory and practice for Catarrh, Throat and Bronchial diseases of which it is our pleasure to be the humble author and practitioner. Neither in use or effect does this system bear resemblance to any means or method ever attempted for the diseases in question, the truth of which statement we hold ourself in duty bound to verify to the entire satisfaction of the profession and the public.

Physicians and others interested are cordially invited to examine the principles and modus operandi governing us in this feature of special practice, and thereafter judge of its merits for themselves. Patients in daily attendance at our professional rooms will at all times, of their own pleasure, bear testimony which we respectfully submit.

Author and Practitioner.

The property of the Company consists of about twelve hundred acres of selected oil territory in Washington County, Ohio, distributed into fifteen tracts, all within a radius of ten miles of the City of Marietta. Three tracts, of two hundred and three acres, are located on Long Run; four tracts, of four hundred acres, on the Little Muskingum; and the other tracts are distributed upon Eight Mile Creek, Fifteen Mile Creek, Morse Run, and the west fork of Morse River, on Paw-Paw Creek, and on Whipple Run.

This property is represented by experts to be of the most promising character, oil indications abounding, especially on Long Run, where wells of other companies are now producing large supplies of heavy lubricating oil. Twelve wells are in process of boring, and machinery, tools, engines and everything necessary for the rapid development of the property are being procured.

The entire purchase-money having been paid, the company is now in full possession of the property.

The Company owns in fee simple 25,000 acres of valuable timber-land in Potter County, Penn., situated on Cross Fork and Kettle Creek, both good rafting-streams. A steam saw-mill is nearly completed, and a large annual revenue will be derived from the sale of lumber for a long period of years.

The land is well adapted for agricultural purposes, and only 21 miles from the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 62 Franklin-st., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 61 Franklin-st. Call, send, or write.

MANHOOD AND THE VIGOR OF YOUTH regained in three days by Dr. POWERS' ESSENCE OF LIFE. This wonderful agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitutions, radically curing Seminal Weakness, Sexual Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Nervousness, Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from self-abuse, &c. The time required to cure the most inveterate case is one week. Failure is impossible. This life-restoring remedy should be taken by all about to marry, as its effects are permanent. Young man, are you subject to that soul and body destroying disease, secret habits? Dr. POWERS' Invigorating Essence is a never-failing cure. Sold by WALTER POWERS, M. D., No. 61 Franklin-st., between Broadway and Elm-st., New-York.

MEDICAL AND SURGICAL CONSULTATIONS.—Dr. R. CORBETT can be consulted with the most honorable confidence on private diseases at his conveniently-arranged suite of offices, No. 30 Centre-st., between Chambers and Reade sts., having a private entrance at No. 6 City Hall-place. From Dr. C. being one of the oldest, and probably the only qualified physician and surgeon in this City who makes diseases of the genitourinary organs a specialty, he is thus enabled to guarantee speedy and permanent cures, or make no charge. Strictures of the urethra, seminal weakness, nervous and general debility treated on the most scientific principles. N. B.—See Dr. C.'s diplomas, in his office, as member of the New-York University Medical College, and College of Surgeons, London. Office hours, 9 A. M. to 8½ P. M.

DR. COOPER, NO. 14 DUANE-ST., MAY BE confidently consulted on all diseases of a private nature. A practice of 30 years, devoted to the treatment and cure of Syphilitic, Mercurial and diseases of a delicate nature, enables Dr. C. to make speedy and permanent cures, no matter of how long standing the case may be. Strictures of the urethra and seminal weakness, brought on by a secret habit, effectually cured. The victims of misplaced confidence, who have been misled by quack advertisements, can call on Dr. C. with the certainty of being radically cured or no charge made.

ADVICE TO MARRIED LADIES, who require a safe and certain remedy for removing obstructions, from whatever cause. Can rely upon the celebrated INFALLIBLE FRENCH FEMALE MONTHLY PILLS. No. 1, price $1 a box, to restore the monthly sickness in forty-eight hours, if of short standing; but obstinate cases, of long standing, may require No. 2, which are four degrees stronger than No. 1, and can never fail, are safe and healthy, price $5 a box. Sold at No. 127½ Liberty-st., and 162 Chambers-st., or sent by mail, with full instructions: address Box 2,359 N. Y. P. O.

DR. POWERS' PERIODICAL DROPS are designed for both married and single ladies, and are the very best thing known for the purpose, as they will bring on the monthly sickness in case of obstruction from any cause, and after all other remedies of the kind have been tried in vain. Expressly for obstinate cases. Warranted as represented in every respect, or the price will be refunded. Beware of imitations! Purchased directly of Dr. POWERS, 61 Franklin-st., N. Y.

IMPORTANT TO THE MARRIED.—DR. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women, informs ladies that "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is for every lady, but more particularly intended for those whose health or circumstances forbid a too rapid increase of family. Price $1. Sold at his office, No. 129 Liberty-st., and No. 1 Vesey-st.

THOUSANDS ARE RUINED BEYOND REDEMPTION in this life by not calling on Dr. HUNTER sooner or later. He can cure the worst cases of secret disease in a shorter time than any other physician, or no pay taken. Skeptics and doubters will please call and read lots of reliable certificates of cures made within the last thirty years of almost hopeless cases, that had had the benefit of dozens of our most eminent physicians and surgeons. Dr. Hunter is in constant attendance from 8 in the morning till 9 at night, at his old office, No. 3 Division-st., New-York City, since 1834. Charges moderate and a cure guaranteed. Separate rooms, so that the patient sees no one but the Doctor himself. His wonderful medical discovery, DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures private diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, and possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb unless his remedy is used. This is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. $2 per vial. Book, 50 pages, gratis.

THE SENATE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE

Further Facts About the City Inspector's Department.

THE SANITARY CONDITION OF THE CITY.

Testimony of Contractors, Members of the Citizens' Association, City Inspector Boole and Employes of his Bureau.

The committee met at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning, a very small lobby being present.

The first witness called was Mr. James F. Fielder, who was examined by Judge Whiting, and who testified that he was a contractor and lived in Jersey City; he formerly owned about 150 water lots in Harsimus, New-Jersey, which he had disposed of to Winants & Cummings.

Mr. James Cummings testified to being joint owner with Mr. Winants of the lots purchased from Mr. Fielder; a portion of the lots are filled in; it would take a million loads of ashes to fill in the remainder; a year ago we could have disposed of all the ashes from New-York in filling in.

Mr. Winants also testified that it would take a million loads of ashes to fill in the lots.

On his cross-examination by Mr. Graham, he testified as follows: We bought ten lots of ground, and in virtue of the ownership of those lots we claim the right to fill in sufficient to make 250 or 300 lots more; we have sold some of these filled-in lots; we sold a number of them for an aggregate sum of $65,000; some for $98,000; we had a contract for filling in some lots for Mr. Phelps at 20 cents per cubic yard; I have loaned Mr. T. N. Carr money; he owes me now about $100; the loans were not prompted by his offer to interest himself in my behalf; I have no interest in the New-York Sanitary and Compost Company; I have never had any conference with the company; I have never pledged myself to contribute money to prosecute charges against Mr. Boole; I am interested in a bill before the Legislature, in reference to placing the cleaning of the streets of the city in the hands of a commission.

Dr. Harriot, a member of the Council of Hygiene and Public Health, a branch of the Citizens' Association, testified: I have performed the duties of Inspector under the council; I have inspected the Fifth Ward; the diseases prevalent were typhus fever, small-pox and cholera infantum; West Broadway and Thomas-street, Leonard, Desbrosses, Greenwich streets and others, are the most unhealthy localities; the small-pox prevailed there last Winter to a greater extent than this; I never met any Health Wardens during my visits.

Cross-examined by Mr. Graham—The localities I have mentioned contain only a few colored families; these families are quite as cleanly in their habits as their white neighbors; the diseases I have spoken of are produced by filth, and also by overcrowding and want of proper ventilation.

Question by Mr. Graham.—Do you know who supplied the statistics on which were based the harangues made in several of our churches last Sunday? A.—No, I do not positively; I saw in the rooms of the Citizens' Association a circular containing statistics, which Dr. Harris told me would be sent to every clergyman in the city.

Mr. Graham remarked that the statistics were grossly incorrect, particularly the figures relating to the mortality of the city.

The witness further testified that he received $40 per month from the Citizens' Association for his services.

Dr. Kennedy testified that he was employed by the Citizens' Association; he inspected the Tenth Ward; fever and small-pox were the prevalent diseases; he never met the Health Warden of the ward in his visits; he was paid $40 per month for his services.

Dr. J. C. Atcheson was employed as inspector in the Thirteenth Ward. He testified on his cross-examination, that a good deal of the sickness in the ward was caused by insufficient drainage, by the flatness of the ground not allowing the moisture to run off, and by the made ground having been filled in with street sweepings.

Mr. James E. Bartlett, an attache of the Citizens' Association was recalled and gave a list of special inspectors in the Tenth and Seventeenth Wards, fifteen in the latter, and five in the former, as taken from the pay-rolls.

Cross-examined.—The Citizens' Association is supported by voluntary contributions. The Citizen newspaper is not published for gratuitous circulation.

The Chairman did not think this question relevant to the inquiry.

Mr. Graham wanted to show that the association had not liberality enough to run the machine without making other people pay for it.

Mr. F. I. A. Boole, City Inspector, was recalled. He testified as to the correctness of certain documents handed to him, one being a list of special Street Inspectors. Ex-Judge Whiting then handed him the Comptroller's report for 1863, and requested him to point out therein the various items with which the City Inspector's Department stood charged. This the witness declined to do, on the ground that he was neither a statistician nor an arithmetician, and that Mr. Whiting could easily find the items for himself.

Mr. Graham said that counsel was evidently working upon a suggestion made to him by somebody or other, but he would find that Mr. Boole's native talent and good sense would prove more than a match for all his enemies.

The Chairman put a stop to the discussion as being irrelevant.

The witness further testified that he did not know how much had been collected to defend the department in Albany; several persons had been discharged from the department at the end of the year; it was usual to discharge a number of employes at that time.

Mr. J. L. Everett, Cashier of the Broadway Bank, testified that the bank loaned the city $778,000, on which $1,500 had been charged; the rate was about 3 per cent.

William A. Herring, Auditor of the Comptroller's office, was recalled to verify portions of the Comptroller's report, relating to appropriations for street cleaning for 1864, and contingencies for the same; also for salaries of Inspectors. From his testimony it appeared that there was yet remaining to the credit of the Street Department $10,154 56 for salaries.

Thomas N. Carr was recalled and examined relative to the amount of ashes and garbage removed from the city during the year. He said there was an error in the City Inspector's report, and that the city paid for more work than was performed. He also controverted the statement made by Dr. Ramsay as to the comparative sanitary condition of London and New-York.

Dr. Thomas was called by Judge Whiting, and examined in relation to the prevalence of disease in the Sixth Ward, the sanitary condition of which he had examined for the Citizens' Association. At present there is much sickness in that ward; in January there were ninety-nine cases of small-pox; witness saw two cases of small-pox in the Sixth Ward on Monday; the disease has prevailed to a large extent in Mulberry, Baxter, Worth, Mott, Centre, Bayard, Pearl and Park streets; there were frequently eight or ten cases of small-pox in one house.

On his cross-examination witness said that the streets of the Sixth Ward were in a filthy condition, and that the tenement houses needed ventilation, cleanliness and proper light. In 1863, the ratio of deaths in the Sixth Ward was one in twenty-four; the population of the Ward was 27,000 in 1863; the stores in the Ward take so much room that there is not enough territory left to properly accommodate the population, with a due regard to health.

Mr. Wainwright, clerk in the City Inspector's Department, was recalled, and said that the errors in Mr. Boole's report did not affect the aggregate of the work performed, and that the city did not lose one cent by overpayments.

Mr. Whiting said the case was closed with the exception of one witness, whose testimony will be taken this morning.

Senator Munger, Chairman of the Committee, said that to-day he would be the only member of the committee present. When his colleagues returned they might desire to take additional testimony, and have some facts of which they were aware placed on record. In that case, the committee would give Mr. Graham and Judge Whiting notice, and those gentlemen might appear and examine such witnesses as were produced, if they saw fit.

The committee then adjourned, to meet at 10½ o'clock this morning.

Opening of the Tobacco Exchange.

Yesterday morning the new Tobacco Exchange, located in the Merchants' Building, Nos. 50 and 52 Pine-street, was formally opened, a very large representation of tobacco growers, merchants and manufacturers from all parts of the Union being present. The hall elected for the Exchange is spacious and well lighted, and thoroughly adapted for the purpose to which it has been appropriated. By 11 o'clock the hall was thronged. One of the novelties exhibited was a quantity of fine leaf tobacco from Connecticut, suitable for cigars.

At 11½ o'clock the President of the association, Mr. R. H. Arkenburgh, formally opened the Exchange, and delivered a short address, stating that the object of the founders of the Exchange was: 1st. To impart a more general knowledge of the daily value of all kinds of tobacco. 2d. To facilitate sales and purchases by affording proper accommodations for collecting, preserving and showing samples, and by inaugurating a system of regular auction sales. 3d. To afford the newly established, as well as the old merchant manufacturer, seller or buyer, an opportunity of meeting the whole trade within the time required to visit one firm.

On the conclusion of the President's address the following officers of the Exchange were announced: President, R. H. Arkenburgh; Vice-President, Chas. H. Connolly; Secretary, George W. Palmore; Treasurer, Joseph D. Evans; Superintendent, S. P. Keller.

Directors—Chas. B. Kallenstein, Joseph D. Evans, Gustav. Heinecken, Daniel E. Garrison, Jas. A. Connolly, Thomas Carroll, Joel E. Burnett, R. H. Ober, Jacob Heald.

Arbitration Committee—Samuel A. Sawyer, Joseph S. Hawkins, John Bryan.

WAR DEPARTMENT SPECIAL AGENCY.

The President's Proclamation—Further Arrests.

Yesterday afternoon a young man of undoubted Teutonic extraction, entered the War Department rooms, at the Astor House, and desired to learn what course the Government would pursue if one of his friends, who had deserted, were to surrender to Col. Baker. The reply was that he might assure his friend that the Colonel would treat him with perfect fairness under the President's late proclamation, and return him to his regiment. Thereupon the Colonel's visitor vanished, and the matter was forgotten. But later in the afternoon he reappeared, and told his story as follows: "I overstaid my furlough more than a year ago, and, fearing to return to my regiment, sought employment in the country; but this recently failed me, and yesterday I found myself in this city, penniless and unable to find work. The brokers offered me $600, $700, $800, and even $900 to enlist, but I didn't want to take too many oaths, because they might not be easy of digestion. I accidentally read in the newspapers the President's Proclamation, offering full pardon to deserters, and came here accordingly." The man, who rendered the name of Nathan West, of Company F, Fourteenth United States Infantry, was sent to Col. Baker's "lock-up," and is to be forwarded to his regiment's headquarters, at Fort Trumbull, Conn., this morning.

Several arrests were made yesterday, of which no mention may yet be made in print. The case of James Doran is one that would seem to demand the attention of our local authorities. Doran induced Patrick McGuire to accompany him to Concord, N. H., to enlist, and was kind enough to undertake to deliver $750 of the bounty money to Mrs. McGuire. It is unnecessary to add that the money did not reach the soldier's wife until after she had entered complaint at Col. Baker's office. Doran, on reluctantly restoring the money, yesterday, was permitted to go. But should not our local authorities punish him for violation of the enlistment act?

Col. Baker, who is in Washington, will return this morning.

The Bounty-Jumpers at Fort Lafayette—Col. Burke and the Way He Treats Them.

Fort Lafayette is full. The captured host sent there, on Monday, by Col. Baker, has monopolized the famous rooms Nos. two and three, in which Gen. Lee, Maj.-Gen. Gardner, Mr. President Bickley, K. G. C., and other noted men were confined, as well as the batteries Nos. four, five and six, in which blockade-runners, neutral Englishmen and contractors innumerable have slept and smoked and cursed. Col. Martin Burke, the jolly and sui generis Commandant of the post, sits, as is his cheerful custom, on the porch and smokes his pleasant pipe, but no longer does his eye fall on Foreign Ministers, on Major-Generals, on rich contractors, or on civil prisoners of gentle birth; he now sees none but dirty-faced bounty-jumpers and nimble-legged deserters, who peer at him from behind their doors and windows, and would hang, draw and quarter him for breakfast. They are not permitted the privilege of the parade-ground, but are locked up closely in the batteries from which the partitions have been knocked, leaving one long room in place of the former three. The scene upon the arrival at Fort Lafayette beggars description. The roughest, devil-me-carest set of fellows ever seen, handcuffed and chained together, some grumbling, but the majority of them swearing and joking as if they had been the victims of a great practical joke, whose point they not only saw, but appreciated. Col. Burke was for once surprised. All classes of men, all grades of society, had been under his lock and key, as he supposed, but it was left for Col. Baker to astonish him with a new phase of humanity, whose peculiarities he is now studying and enjoying. The men will be kept there for a short time and then sent to the front. On the return of the boat the rebel Gen. Page, Col. Montgomery and others, were brought to Pier No. 1 North River whence they went to Fort Delaware, while all the State prisoners were sent to Fort Warren.

DEPORTMENT OF KENNEDY.

We regret to state that Kennedy, the spy and incendiary, whose execution will shortly take place at Governor's Island, is not conducting himself with the dignity, the manliness or the courage, which one would expect. He is confined by himself in room No. one, where he is provided with suitable food, books and papers. His curses and imprecations are terrible; his profanity most offensive, and his indecency of language almost inconceivable. No one is permitted to see him save in the presence of Col. Burke, and it is hardly necessary to state that a second interview is never desired, as his salutations are at once suggestive of profound wickedness and utter disregard of the commonest civilities of life. It would seem as if he not only cared nothing for the rascalities of which he is proven guilty, but likewise desired to blacken his personal reputation in the minds of all decent people. He denies that he confessed anything in relation to the burning of Barnum's Museum, but says that if he had his way he would burn and cut up every place and person in the city. It is sad to see a young man on the very verge of certain death, thus devoting himself to filthy profanity and disgusting bravado, rather than, as did his predecessor Beall, to the consideration of the momentous change so near him, with all its consequences and possibilities unnoted and unpropitiated.

The Draft.

Up to a late hour last evening, complete uncertainty prevailed about the draft ordered for the city to-day. Maj. Dodge, the Provost-Marshal, was at Washington, for special and final orders. In quarters where official position ought to afford the means of judging, it was thought during the afternoon that the draft would be enforced in all districts where recruits are not coming in fast enough to keep the enrolling boards busy, and not elsewhere. The County Volunteer Committee seemed to think that the draft would be enforced generally. Apparently the orders in the hands of the District Provost-Marshals might be construed to command either a draft, or to be in readiness to draft. Orders from Washington might, however, decide the whole matter in any way at any moment.

In the meantime recruiting goes on, and will be regularly continued. The announcement of the draft had the effect of checking enlistments, the recruits holding back to obtain higher bounties.

Yesterday, however, men came forward to enlist in greater numbers; up to noon about fifty had been sworn in; and if the draft is not enforced, the recruits mustered each day will certainly, it is said, average more than a hundred.

The following table exhibits the list of recruits of all descriptions enlisted from the 13th of February to the 13th of March inclusive—twenty-four days:

Feb. 13	38	Feb. 27	124
Feb. 14	83	Feb. 28	110
Feb. 15	83	March 1	91
Feb. 16	122	March 2	92
Feb. 17	94	March 3	53
Feb. 18	94	March 4	23
Feb. 20	184	March 7	124
Feb. 21	130	March 8	110
Feb. 22	107	March 9	107
Feb. 23	100	March 10	70
Feb. 24	137	March 11	59
Feb. 25	75	March 13	78

Total enlistments in 24 days.....2,288

The variation in the number of recruits taken is accounted for not only by the order to draft, but by interruptions in the naval branch of the recruiting business at the Park headquarters.

Some better arrangements are now made, and volunteers of all classes will be received.

The Draft in the Tenth Ward.

MEETING OF CITIZENS TO FILL THE QUOTA.

A meeting was held at the Essex Market Police Court, on Monday evening, for the purpose of taking measures to fill the quota in the Tenth Ward. The attendance was large, and those present manifested much interest in the proceedings.

On motion of Supervisor Purdy, ex-Congressman Nelson Taylor, was elected Chairman; Ex-Supervisor Weisman was elected Assistant Chairman, and Mr. John Lawrence, Secretary.

The Chairman made a short speech, in which he said that the Volunteer Committee had done all that could reasonably be expected of them, and it was now necessary that the citizens of the wards should organize and fill the quota.

Supervisor Purdy made a patriotic speech, in which he said that his desire was that in the Tenth Ward the draft should be avoided. He proposed that a committee should be appointed to take charge of the matter, and also a committee to confer with various members of Congress, and have a meeting called in the Park to aid recruiting. The exact quota of the district, he said, was 2,776, to be reduced by the number allowed for the men received by the County Volunteer Committee. He said that Gov. Fenton had proceeded to Washington to request a postponement of the draft, and the speaker did not believe that it would be enforced on Wednesday. He spoke of the many sad partings he had witnessed at the Volunteer Committee Rooms, and said the sufferings inflicted by a draft would be much greater.

On motion of ex-Councilman Webster, a committee was appointed to draft resolutions. The Chairman appointed the following gentlemen: J. H. Webster, David Miller, George Donaldson, Michael Kurtz, Andrew Willman and Judge Gale:

The committee reported the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the County Volunteer Committee, individually and collectively, are entitled to the thanks of this community for their patriotic efforts to save the city from a draft.

Resolved, That we, the citizens of the Tenth Ward, pledge ourselves to aid and assist with our best endeavors, to fill the quota of this District, and call upon the Union-loving and patriotic citizens of the city to come forward, and by an extra exertion forward the work of filling the quota of the city, and take part, it is to be hoped, in the early consummation of the work, which is now, thanks to our brave and gallant soldiers, so gloriously progressing.

Resolved, That a committee of six be appointed by the President of this meeting, to consult with the citizens of the several wards comprising the Fifth Congressional District, and invite their cooperation in devising a suitable plan for effectually carrying into execution the objects and purposes of this meeting.

Resolved, That the citizens of the ward be, and are, invited to meet and organize in the several voting districts of the ward, and appoint committees to obtain volunteers, and to wait upon and solicit those who are enrolled and subject to the draft, to exert themselves in obtaining substitutes.

The following committee was appointed to confer with the other wards comprising the Fifth Congressional District: Ex-Supervisor Weisman, Nelson Taylor, John W. Farmer, Judge Gale, J. H. Webster, and John A. Smith.

The meeting then adjourned to meet at the same place on Friday evening.

Board of Aldermen.

A COMMUNICATION FROM THE MAYOR IN REGARD TO THE TAX LEVY—THE STORAGE OF PETROLEUM.

This board met at 2 P. M., yesterday, the President, Mr. Jones, in the chair.

A communication was received from the committee of the Senate appointed to select a site for a State capital, informing the board that the committee will meet in the Senate Chamber on the 22d inst., to hear all parties interested in the matter.

It was referred to the Joint Special Committee having the matter in charge.

The following communication was received from the Mayor:

Mayor's Office, City of New-York, March 14, 1865.
To the Honorable the Common Council:

Gentlemen: The one hundred days to which the Legislative session is ordinarily limited will expire in about thirty days.

The ordinance annually adopted "to provide means for the support of the City Government" has not yet been acted on in either branch of your Honorable Body. It is possible that the two branches may not agree, and even if they should do so, that some item may—in the conscientious discharge of my duty—compel me, however reluctantly, to return the ordinance, with objections thereto. In case of such necessity, the time allowed to the Mayor for his consideration, and that which is required for advertisement before the Common Council can again act in the matter, will consume two-thirds of the yet unexpired time of the Legislature. An important bill of this nature should be acted on with due consideration, and ten days is a very short time for the Legislature to be given for proper investigation. In relation to this subject, the attention of your Honorable Body was called in my annual message of the present year, to the advisability of early action in the following extract:

"The Comptroller will present, now, or very shortly, to your Honorable Body an estimate of the approximate amounts necessary to support the City Government during the current year, based on returns received from the various branches of its administration and the public bodies supported from its treasury. Those that can be reduced, should be brought down to the lowest sum, and in doing so, I entertain the hope, both for the honor of the city and the satisfaction of the citizens generally, that in place of disagreement between the two branches of the Common Council, virtually excluding the Mayor from any participation in this important measure, it will be presented to the Legislature as the act of the Corporation, not as the discordant and opposing opinions of bodies apparently so intent on subserving private interests as to be unable to agree. A want of harmony in the Common Council in the settlement of the items of the Tax Levy, not only justifies, but really compels the Legislature to interpose and determine the amounts to be raised for each specific object of municipal expenditure. I would also respectfully recommend that the Common Council afford a fair and reasonable opportunity for citizens to present their views on this subject; and then, after a thorough, open and judicious scrutiny of all the items of taxation, apply to the Legislature for its sanction."

I must renew my recommendation in relation to the Tax Levy, and earnestly hope that the action of your Honorable Body will be such as to enable me to give it approval, and that it may be presented to the Legislature without delay as the act of the Corporation of the City of New-York.

C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

Mr. Ryers, Chairman of the Committee on Finance, said the committee would report a tax levy as soon as practicable. The Mayor's communication was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Jeremiah moved to take up the ordinance relative to the storage of petroleum. He said he considered the ordinance objectionable in many points. It was too restrictive in its character, and would, if adopted, ruin the petroleum trade. This was by no means desirable, as the trade brought wealth to our city. In the second place, the ordinance provided that the cellars in which the oil is stored shall communicate with the public sewers. Now it is well known that the oil generates an inflammable gas, and this gas passing through the sewers would in all probability escape and set fire to the buildings above. Further, the burning oil would flow down the sewers to their openings into the river, and set fire to the bulkheads and shipping. He offered as a substitute for that ordinance one in which these objections did not appear.

Mr. Farley asked if the ordinance was drawn up by the petroleum trade.

Mr. Jeremiah said it was not, and that he was not in the habit of consulting the interests of any particular trade, but of the city in general.

Mr. Jeremiah's ordinance limits the quantity of refined petroleum stored in any one place to 25 barrels; of crude to 5 barrels. All petroleum to be stored in well-ventilated cellars. Refined petroleum to stand a fire test of 110 degrees.

Both ordinances were referred to the Committee on Ordinances, and the board adjourned to Thursday next.

City Railroad Fares.

By an amendment to the law of June 30, 1864, our city railroad companies are fully authorized to add one cent to their fares, on and after the 1st of April next. When the companies raised their fares, some months ago, the public resisted on the ground that the companies were only authorized by law to add the Government tax of two and a half per cent., and not to increase the fares to six cents. The amended law does away with this objection, as appears from the following:

Sec. 10. And be it further enacted, That whenever under the proviso to section 103 the addition to any fares shall amount to any sum involving the fraction of one cent, any person or company liable to the duty of two and one-half per cent., as in said section provided, shall be authorized to add to such fare one cent in lieu of such fraction.

The time when the new act goes into effect is given in this section:

Sec. 18. And be it further enacted, That this act shall be in force and effect from and after the first day of April, 1865, unless otherwise provided by this act.

The Eighth and Ninth avenue Railroad Companies have always been very lenient in regard to collecting the extra cent, and lately they have refused it when offered. All the other companies continue to demand it. On Saturday last, the Brooklyn City Railroad companies raised their fare to six cents.

Obituary.

VIRGINIA LORINI WHITING.

Virginia Lorini Whiting, the once favorite prima donna, died on the 28th of February last at Santiago de Cuba, of an attack of hemorrhage. Madame Lorini was the wife of M. Lorini, now with Maretzek's company, and the daughter of Whiting the comedian. As an artist the deceased enjoyed a wide reputation. After making her debut in this city, she went to Europe, where she won an enviable position as an artist. Though not a great tragic actress, Madame Lorini was capable of playing such parts as Norma and Lucrezia in an acceptable manner. She leaves a large family, to whom she was devotedly attached.

MR. HENRY STEINWAY.

On Saturday last, Mr. Henry Steinway, of the well-known firm of Steinway & Sons, died at his residence in Fifty-third-street, after a long and painful illness. Mr. Steinway had reduced the manufacture of piano-fortes to a science, and it is probable that few men ever lived who were better acquainted with the construction of the instrument. The deceased was 34 years of age, and at the time of his death had just returned from Cuba. His remains were interred in Greenwood Cemetery.

Incidents in the Police Courts Yesterday.

Mary Dalton, a young and interesting Canal-street milliner, was called to the bar at Jefferson Market, and Mrs. Otillie Maas appeared and accused her of picking her pocket in Canal-street. Officer Gillmartin, of the Ninth Ward, who arrested the prisoner, testified that he found the complainant's wallet in the gutter, whither the accused had thrown it, and upon this testimony Justice Dodge committed the prisoner in default of $1,500 bail.

Policeman Murphy, of the Fifteenth Ward, appeared before Justice Ledwith, having in custody one Isaac Wirtman, keeper of a Thompson-street den, and one Margaret Wheelan, an attractive German girl, and Mr. John Jones, of No. 74 Amity-street, entered complaint against the prisoners for stealing his watch while he was asleep in Wirtman's place, on Monday evening. The watch was found in the masculine prisoner's hands, and both of the accused were committed in default of $1,500 bail.

Policeman Frieze, of the Twenty-second Precinct, apprehended Edward McCarthy and John Callahan and took them to the Halls of Justice, and Mr. James Williams, of No. 49 Cliff-street, appeared against the prisoners and made affidavit that on Monday evening, while he was in a West-street groggery, one of them tripped him and the other seized his watch. The accused were committed by Justice Dowling.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

Destructive Fire in Dey-street.—A fire, the origin of which is unknown, was discovered about 7:30 o'clock last evening, on the third floor of No. 17 Dey-street, occupied by Messrs. Berg & Co., manufacturers of patent cigarettes. The flames spread with great rapidity, and entered the fourth story before the firemen had adjusted their machinery, and by the time when the engines had got fairly at work the fire had made such progress as to render it doubtful whether any part of the building could be saved; but at about 10 o'clock the firemen had gained the mastery, and checked the fire on the second story, leaving Messrs. Rich & Brewster's hardware establishment, on the first floor, uninjured, except by water. Messrs. Lehman & Frey's stock of clothing, on the second floor; Messrs. Berg & Co.'s stock of tobacco, on the third floor; Mr. William McGuire's boot and shoe manufactory, on the fourth floor, and Messrs. Rich & Brewster's hardware, stored on the fifth floor, were entirely consumed. The building in the rear of No. 17 Dey-street, and known as No. 14 Cortlandt-street, was entered by the firemen, and hose-pipes were put through to reach the fire in the rear, and the occupants of this building—Messrs. Meade, Townshend & Andrews, Ira Shepardson, and Charles H. Carpenter, all wholesalers of boots and shoes, suffered trivial loss by water. The entire loss is roughly estimated at $100,000.

Shot by His Friend.—On Sunday afternoon Jacob Steffin, deputy-keeper of Blackwell's Island Penitentiary, fell asleep in Frank Farrell's porter-house, Sixty-first-street and Third-avenue, and Thos. Donaldson, soapmaker for the island, entered and struck Steffin in frolic; whereupon a sportive scuffle ensued, and Steffin's pistol, falling, was discharged, and Donaldson was wounded in the left thigh. He was taken to the Island Hospital, and Steffin was placed under arrest to await the result of the wound. Donaldson died on Monday, and an inquest was held yesterday by Coroner Collin, when, it appearing that the shooting was accidental, Steffin was released from constraint.

Arrival of Blockade-Runners.—Nearly 150 blockade-runners have recently arrived in this city from Nassau, N. P., and others are on their way to this port. The men have been thrown out of employment in consequence of the occupation of the Southern ports by the Union fleets, and now come here boasting of their achievements in blockade running, and displaying much gold, which they have earned by that means. They all had papers which were recognized as passports, and were not detained by the authorities.

Concert at Calvary Church.—A concert for the benefit of Mr. J. Reyner, under the direction of Mr. Charles F. Olney, will be given at Calvary Church, in Thirty-second-street, near Fifth-avenue, this evening. Professors Morgan and Mills, Dr. Berge, Alfred W. Pease, Madame De Lussan, Mr. Foulmin, and other distinguished artists, will assist.

Serious Accident.—Mr. James McKenna, of No. 37 Mott-street, an employe in Scott's cracker bakery, at No. 77 Mott-street, fell from the top of a staircase and sustained a compound fracture of the skull. He was taken to the Bellevue Hospital.

Fire in Varick-street.—Thomas Ryan's liquor-store, at No. 189 Varick-street, was destroyed, at about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, by fire of unknown origin. The loss, which is estimated at $1,000, is covered by insurance in the Pacific office.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Increase of Teachers' Salaries.—The Brooklyn Board of Education last evening increased the salaries of female teachers of the Public Schools to the amount of $75. Heretofore the teachers received an average salary of $312 per year. The number of female teachers in the city is 456. The board also elected officers for the ensuing year. The following were chosen: President, Cyrus P. Smith; Vice-President, J. S. Thorne, M. D.; Superintendent, J. W. Bulkley; Secretary, G. W. A. Stewart; Clerk, Henry Dean; Messenger, Nathaniel Creswell.

Fire in North Seventh-street.—A fire broke out about 9:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening, in the stable of Edward Wells, on North Seventh, near Fourth-street, E. D. Building and contents were damaged to the amount of about $1,500.

Kings County Circuit Court—Wednesday, March 15.—Nos. 21, 22½, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 30, 30½, 31, 32, 33, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 16, 17, 18.

NEW-JERSEY.

Murder in Newark.—On Monday night a German named Christopher Stickler was shot and killed by a soldier of the Veteran Reserve Corps, under the following circumstances: Stickler had just left a grocery-store on the corner Mulberry and South Canal streets, and while engaged in a conversation with a young woman on the sidewalk, was accosted by two soldiers named Edward Coote and John Rollins of the Veteran Reserve Corps. Stickler was ordered to leave, which he declined to do, when Coote drew a cavalry revolver and fired, the ball taking effect on Stickler's left temple, penetrating to the brain. The injured man was removed to the police station where he died yesterday morning, having remained unconscious from the time the wound was inflicted. Coote and Rollins, two other soldiers and the young woman with whom deceased was in conversation, were subsequently arrested and are held to await the result of the Coroner's inquest. Coote admitted the deed and alleged that he was acting in self-defence. Deceased was a single man about 45 years of age.

Serious Stabbing Affray.—A butcher named Theodore Glaser, was arrested in Newark on Monday night, charged with having stabbed a man named Frederick Wincke, in the bar-room of Kepler's Hotel. The knife took effect in the neck, inflicting a wound seven inches in length and about one inch deep, barely escaping the carotid artery. Wincke is a very fleshy man, and from this cause his life was saved.

Fire.—Yesterday forenoon a fire occurred in Kennedy's grocery-store, corner of South Sixth and Coles-street, Jersey City, which was damaged to the extent of $600 before it was extinguished.

Supposed to be a Sailor's Yarn.—A sailor wearing the naval rig made his appearance at the Union Volunteer Refreshment Saloon, on Saturday afternoon, and represented that he had been wrecked in the United States sloop-of-war Ticonderoga, off Cape Fear, on Tuesday night last. He said that the vessel was bound for Newbern, and that she encountered a violent storm, which began on Sunday and continued up to Tuesday night, when the vessel was driven on a bar, and in about fifteen minutes had seven feet of water in the hold; that in a few minutes the boats were lowered, and officers and men took to them. A raft, he says, was constructed and launched, on which the rest of the crew took refuge. Rockets were fired as signals of distress, and the steamer Ellsworth, for Boston, took them all off and brought them to this port. All escaped, according to his story, but the Chief Engineer, an assistant and the coal-heaver, who were in the engine and boiler rooms when the vessel struck. Though the man tells a very plausible story, there are good reasons for believing that the whole thing is a fabrication. He represents the Ticonderoga to have been a side-wheel steamer, which is not a fact; nor does he give the proper name of the commander of the vessel. He says that she carried eight guns, whereas her armament consists of twenty guns. Besides, no one about the Navy-yard has heard of her loss, nor have officers or sailors from her been landed there. It is not probable that the man could have been mistaken in the character of the vessel, if he had been, as he says, several months on board of her, nor in the name of the commander.—Philadelphia Ledger, March 13.

The Suit Against the New-York Express.

COMMON PLEAS—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Judge Daly.

Clark vs. James and Erastus Brooks.—The defendants in this case made an application to stay all proceedings herein until the decision of the General Term upon the appeal which has been taken. The court in deciding the motion said: As the appeal will bring under review all the questions decided in the case, there is a propriety in granting a stay of proceedings until the appeal can be heard at General Term. It can probably be heard and disposed of at the next term, I do not deem it necessary therefore to modify the stay by directing the accounting to be taken before the pending appeal is decided.

TO REGULATE THE STORING OF PETROLEUM, ROCK, EARTH, OR COAL OILS, KEROSENE, BENZINE, BENZOLE, NAPHTHA, OR THEIR PRODUCTS, IN THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

The Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York, do ordain as follows:

Section 1. It shall not be lawful for any person or persons to store, or keep for sale, any refined petroleum, rock, earth, or coal oils in any building within the City of New-York, in excess of twenty-five (25) barrels of forty-five gallons each, and for the purpose of this ordinance it shall not be lawful to store any of the commodities mentioned in this ordinance in any portion of any building except the cellar underground, which cellars shall have proper ventilation, both front and rear. Any person or persons found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this section shall be subject to a fine of not less than five hundred (500) dollars for each and every offence, and the Corporation Attorney is hereby empowered to sue for and recover the penalty imposed by this section.

Sec. 2. It shall not be lawful for any person or persons to store or keep for sale any crude petroleum, naphtha, benzine, benzole, or kerosene, in any building used for storing or keeping refined petroleum, rock, earth or coal oils, within the limits of the City of New-York, under the penalty of five hundred (500) dollars for each and every offence, and the Corporation Attorney is hereby vested with the same powers as are given by the preceding section.

Sec. 3. It shall not be lawful to keep for sale or store in any building in the City of New-York any crude petroleum, naphtha, benzine, benzole or kerosene, in excess of five (5) barrels of forty-five gallons each, which shall be kept in cellars underground, properly ventilated, except that one barrel of forty-five (45) gallons may be kept for retail purposes. Any person or persons found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this section shall be subject to a fine of not less than five hundred (500) dollars, to be recovered in the same manner as that imposed by the preceding sections of this ordinance.

Sec. 4. It shall not be lawful to store any refined petroleum or earth, rock or coal oils, in the City of New-York, that will not withstand a fire-test of one hundred and ten degrees Fahrenheit (as shown by John Tagliabue's Patent Pyrometer,) under the penalty of five hundred dollars for each and every offence, and the Corporation Attorney is hereby empowered to proceed against the offenders in the same manner as provided by the preceding section in this ordinance.

Sec. 5. No crude or refined petroleum, rock, earth or coal oils, benzine, benzole, kerosene, or naphtha shall be kept or stored on any of the sidewalks, lanes or alleys, neither in front of any building, nor in the yard thereof, nor upon any wharf, pier, slip or bulkhead in the City of New-York, under the penalty of five hundred (500) dollars, to be sued for and recovered in the same manner by the Corporation Attorney as in the preceding sections.

Sec. 6. Any person giving information of violations of any of the provisions of this ordinance shall receive, upon the conviction of the person or persons so found violating, one-half the penalty imposed and recovered. And the Corporation Attorney, after deducting the expenses incident to such action or actions, shall pay the balance to the Treasurer of the New-York Fire Department, to be applied in aid of the charitable fund of said department; and he shall also cause a monthly return to be made to the Common Council, embracing the names, places of business of persons violating, together with the amounts received by him for violations of the provisions of this ordinance.

Sec. 7. This ordinance shall take effect immediately.
